MORE CHICAGO CARS PUT IN OPERATION

Another Line Started Under Guard of Patrolmen.

Negotiations Between the Two Factions Now Pending.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—The Chicago City Railway Company has effected plans for opening up three more of its trunk lines before the close of the week. The general plan of procedure drawn up by the police and the management provides for the starting of the Indiana avenue electric cars today, the Halsted street tomorrow and the State street cable trains on Friday.

Passengers have begun to take the Wentworth avenue cars in such large numbers that the police no longer fear riots along this right of way. Within a few days a similar condition is expected in Cottage Grove avenue, which was opened up yesterday. Little or no trouble is looked for in Indiana avenue, but the management of the company dreads the effect of sending out cars in Halsted and State streets.

While negotiations for peace between the city railway and its striking employes were pending in the city hall through the overtures of Mayor Harrison and the aldermanic arbitration committee, a third line of the company's strike bound cars was put in operation today under police protection.

Five cars on the Indiana avenue electric line were started under guard of patrolmen drawn from the Wentworth and Cottage Grove lines, where trouble had apparently subsided almost to the point of disappearance. The Indiana avenue line connects with the Wabash avenue cable line at Eighteenth street and extends southward to Fifty-first street, midway between the other two main lines which have been put in operation.

A greater number of trains were put in commission on Cottage Grove avenue than were operated yesterday. Owing to the withdrawal of police and men to operate other lines, only 15 cars were operated on Wentworth avenue.

Mayor Harrison and his mediation committee held another conference with representatives of the company and of the strikers today. Concerning the possibility of a sympathetic strike on other street car lines in Chicago, President Mahon, of the Amalgamated

ANSWERABLE TO LAW.

Governor Garvin Uncertain as to Procedure in Block Island Cases.

[Special despatch to the News.]

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 18.—Governor Garvin has received the petition sent from Block Island in behalf of the Rose faction by Samuel M. Rose, charging that 17 electors voted fraudulently at the recent election on the island. The governor said today that he had done nothing yet and will wait a day or two, as he is not sure of the proper procedure and desires to consult legal authority. He says the men are answerable to law if they illegally registered and that some action will be taken, but its nature is uncertain until the matter has been more fully considered.

REPUBLICANS ORGANIZE.

Officers of the State Central and Congressional Committees.

[Special despatch to the News.]

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 18.—The Republican state central committee organized today by the re-election of Frank E. Holden of Woonsocket as chairman and Nathan M. Wright of Providence as secretary and treasurer. The First Congressional district committee organized by electing Charles C. Gray of Providence chairman and Samuel L. Peck of Warren secretary. The Second Congressional district committee elected Walter A. Read of Gloucester chairman and Edward A. Kenyon of Charlestown secretary.

250 PRIESTS PRESENT.

Rev. Edwin S. Lines Consecrated Bishop of Episcopal Diocese of Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 18.—Rev. Edwin S. Lines, former rector of St. Paul's Church, New Haven, was today consecrated bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Newark. The consecration services, which were held in Grace Church, were the most imposing ever seen in the diocese, there being nearly a score of bishops and over 250 priests present, with 50 vested choristers.

The services were presided over by Rt. Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, of Missouri, with Bishop Henry C. Potter of New York and Bishop John Scarborough of New Jersey as consecrators. The bishop-elect was presented by Rt. Rev. Dr. Coleman of Delaware and the Rt. Rev. Dr. Brewster of Connecticut. The certificate of election was read by Rev. John Keller of Arlington, and the canonical testimony by Alfred Mills of Morristown. Bishop Doane of Albany preached the sermon.

An immense throng of women sought entrance to the church after the procession had entered, and in the struggle to pass through the two small iron gates many of them had their clothing torn.

REBELS PREVENTED FROM ENTERING CITY

Severe Fighting Occurs Around San Domingo.

Cruiser Baltimore Lands Marines to Protect Americans.

SAN DOMINGO, Nov. 17.—Severe fighting took place last night around this city. The rebels were prevented from entering the capital. The loss of the rebels is not known.

United States cruiser Baltimore landed marines to protect American interests. Guards were placed at the American legation and consulate and the Clyde steamship agency. The situation, otherwise, is unchanged.

All is quiet this morning, but a new attack is expected at any moment.

According to a despatch from Santiago, Cuba, yesterday, cruiser Baltimore arrived there that morning from Guantanamo, where she officially assumed sovereignty in the name of the United States over the naval station there. It was added that the Baltimore would leave Santiago in the afternoon for Kingston, Jamaica, and thence would go to Bahaia-Honda, province of Pinar Del Rio, which is to be made a coaling station of the United States.

GENERAL ATTACK ON THE CITY.

Minister Powell Confirms Report of Fighting at San Domingo.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The State Department today received a cablegram from Minister Powell, dated yesterday, in which he says:

"General attack on city of San Domingo last night. Baltimore landed marines for protection American interests."

In a delayed cablegram, dated November 16, also received today, Minister Powell says: "Situation desperate and unchanged. City is constantly under fire of insurgents and shells are falling in the city. An assault is momentarily expected."

BULGARIAN VILLAGE BURNED.

Act of Revenge by Mussulmans in District of Kirk-Kilisseh.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 18.—The Mussulmans in the district of Kirk-Kilisseh, 32 miles from Adrianople, have burned five Bulgarian villages, in revenge for an attack made by the Bulgarians on the Mussuman village of Zarasa.

TURKISH TROOPS RETREAT.

Revolt in Vilayet of Yemen, Arabia, Extending Southward.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 18.—The revolt in the vilayet of Yemen, Arabia, is extending southward. The Ottoman troops advancing on Hodaida were determinedly opposed by the rebellious tribes and were forced to retreat. Another attempt to advance from Mokha failed, the Turkish troops being defeated.

GROSVENOR HAS THE FLOOR.

Declares the Position of the Administration Unassailable.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The House resumed consideration of the Cuban bill today. Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio opening the debate. He prefaced his remarks by saying that while the debate had taken a wide range he regretted that there had been no discussion on the other side of the house of the Panama canal question, and in this connection he said the position of the administration was unassailable and would redound to the glory of the American people.

Mr. Grosvenor said he would not permit his vote on this question to be challenged as affecting his attitude on the dominant question of protection to American industries. Speaking of tariff revision, he said the Republicans would revise the schedules when they got ready to do so and in their own way, without any aid from the opposite side of the house; and that the revision would be with special reference to the upbuilding of American industries without disturbing present conditions. He observed that nothing would be more destructive than to have the Democrats come into power, but that was an impossibility for the next two years. Replying to the remarks of Mr. Swanson of Virginia, he said there need be no fear of retaliation from a country which could not live 30 days without purchasing food supplies from the outside.

Answering a statement made by Mr. Clark of Missouri, as to conditions existing when Mr. Cleveland went in as President, Mr. Grosvenor said: "Immediately upon the election of Cleveland there was practically a suppression of the income of the revenues of the government into the treasury of the United States. It was natural; it was inevitable. It would happen again if somebody other than Roosevelt should be elected President next year."

FOR INCREASE OF PENSIONS.

Senator Gallinger Presents Petition From "Dames of 1846."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Today's session of the Senate began with the presentation of a petition by Mr. Gallinger from "the dames of 1846" for the increase to $30 per month of all pensions granted on account of the Mexican war. He said the pension committee would give due consideration to the petition, but called attention to the fact that all survivors of the Mexican war now receive pensions of $12.

On motion of Mr. Spooner, the Senate ordered printed additional copies of the treaty between the United States and New Granada which was made in 1846 and proclaimed in 1848.

At 12:20 the Senate adjourned.

DRAFT OF TREATY BEING PREPARED.

Main Features of Canal Convention Agreed Upon.

No Date for Its Signature Yet Determined.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The main features of the Hay-Bunau-Varilla treaty, providing for the construction of an Isthmian canal by the Panama route, have been agreed upon, and the rough draft of the convention is in preparation. No date for the signing of the treaty has yet been fixed. The Panama minister and Secretary Hay will have another conference today regarding the treaty.

COLOMBIA THREATENS.

Her Relations With the United States in a Critical State.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—It is learned here that the situation at Bogota has assumed a critical phase as far as relations between the United States and Colombia are concerned. Minister Beaupre November 16 was pressed very strongly by the Colombian government to know whether the United States intended to recognize the new republic of Panama. It is understood that the request was in such shape as to constitute a menace in the event that the recognition had been extended.

Mr. Beaupre was instructed by this government to again inform the Colombian government that such recognition had been extended to the new republic of Panama by the United States, but simply in the interest of humanity and civilization and in execution of solemn treaty obligations binding upon the United States. He also was instructed to tender to the Colombian government the good offices of the United States to effect a settlement of the difficulties between Colombian and Panama. The issue is awaited with some anxiety here.

Mr. Beaupre, as has been stated, has been granted leave of absence by the State Department, and it remains for him to determine when he shall avail himself of the leave.

As an earnest of the desire of the State Department to continue on friendly terms with the Colombian government, it is pointed out that without bringing direct pressure to bear, the department is disposed to do everything in its power to save any equities Colombia may have in the isthmus. Thus it is recognized as entirely proper that some part of the $10,000,000 which the United States government is to pay over to Panama upon the ratification of the treaty should be alloted by the government of Panama to Colombia, in payment of Panama's share of the Colombian national debt.

It is stated, however, that the United States government would not offer an affront to the Colombian dignity and honor by tendering directly a sum of money in the nature of a bribe as a salve for the separation of Panama, and while it cannot specify in its agreement with Panama that any part of the $10,000,000 is to be diverted to Colombia, there will be no concealment of the hopes of the United States in that matter.

The present intention of the United States government is to include in the new treaty provision for the payment of $10,000,000 to the republic of Panama and to no other government.

SIMILAR TO UNITED STATES.

Panama Convention to Formulate System of Government.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Federico Boyd, a member of the commission to this government from the new republic of Panama, which has just arrived from Colon, says that in a few days the constitutional convention will meet to formulate a system of government which will follow closely the lines of the United States constitution. In discussing the revolution, he was asked:

"What assurances, if any, did you have from the United States in reference to its attitude toward the uprising?"

"We know," of course," he replied, "that American men-of-war would be there to see that the traffic across the isthmus was not interrupted by fighting, and we knew for that reason the landing of Colombian troops would not be permitted. Outside of that we had no assurances. What we did we did on our own responsibility and we depended upon the justice of our cause for recognition."

The question of possible annexation of the isthmus to the United States had not yet been talked about.

"The sentiment of the people of Panama," Mr. Boyd added, "is to make the isthmus what it seems destined to be from its geographical position, and to place it where it can perform most efficiently its mission in the interest of progress and civilization, and become what it has been intended to be—a link binding together the two Americans and a gateway between two worlds. The building of the canal now lies with the United States."

AFTER 11 YEARS' SERVICE.

Head of Sanitary Bureau of Chicago Health Department Removed.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Andrew Young, for 11 years head of the sanitary bureau of the Chicago health department, has been removed from office by order of Commissioner of Health Reynolds. The reason given is the lax system prevailing in the bureau and the evidence of corruption among inspectors, though Young has not himself been involved.

Diphtheria Epidemic in Suffern, N. Y.

NYACK, N. Y., Nov. 18.—In the village of Suffern, Rockland county, diphtheria is epidemic. Twenty-one cases have already been reported and the board of education ordered the schools closed today. A prominent teacher is one of the victims of the disease.

DELEGATES SPEAK ON SOCIALISM.

Chief Topic at Federation of Labor Convention.

That Body to Decide Its Position on the Question.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—Delegates and spectators alike assembled with eagerness in Faneuil hall today for the session of the American Federation of Labor, for the question was to be decided whether the convention would place itself on record as favoring socialism. Though the debate upon this issue was started shortly after the opening of the afternoon session yesterday, several delegates announced that they wished to speak upon the question today. Among these was Delegate James F. Carey, one of the leading Socialists of Massachusetts, and Delegate J. M. Barnes of Philadelphia, who has been suggested as the Socialists' candidate for president of the federation in opposition to President Gompers. The question today came upon concurring in the action of the committee on resolutions, which reported "unfavorable" yesterday, on nine resolutions, the adoption of any or all of which meant the pledging of the federation to some form of Socialism.

The first speaker of the morning was Delegate Richmond, president of the Railway Clerks' International Association. He declared that his organization would withdraw from the federation if the convention adopted socialistic ideas. Delegate Dole, of the piano makers of Chicago, asked unanimous consent to introduce a resolution that the federation urge upon all organized wage workers the necessity of using their political power at the ballot box to elect trade unionists to municipal, state and national offices, so that the amelioration of the wage workers' condition might be more satisfactorily accomplished. Objection was raised and the resolution was not considered.

Socialist Delegate Lavin of Wilkesbarre, Pa., in one of his characteristically earnest speeches, opposed the committee's report, and made a plea for the adoption of socialism. He believed that there was something wrong with the body politic and that socialism would cure the evils. The delegate declared that the boys and girls are taken from school early and put to work in the factories and mills and he pointed out that the more boys there are, the worse it is for the men.

"We have come to such a pass," he said, "that all the men and women can do is to produce the boys and girls to take the places of the men in the factories. I see no political party that will stop these conditions except the socialist."

Delegates Kreft of Philadelphia and Slayton of Newcastle, Pa., addressed the chair in opposition to the committee's unfavorable report. Delegate Kreft declared that no other political party than the socialist made reference in its platform in Pennsylvania last year to the coal strike. Headed by J. M. Barnes, the Socialists had raised thousands of dollars for the strikers, making a house to house canvass. They had done the same thing during the strike of the textile operatives, he said.

After several other Socialist delegates had spoken, a momentary silence succeeded by some applause marked the proceedings as John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, arose to speak. He said:

"I do not desire to detract one iota from the credit due our Socialist friends for the assistance rendered us during the coal strike. On the contrary, I wish to make grateful acknowledgment to them for the assistance they gave us. Especially do I wish to acknowledge the assistance and efforts made by Delegate Barnes, but I wish to deny the statement made by Delegate Kreft, that the relief committee in Philadelphia was organized by or was under the supervision of the Socialist body. The relief body was organized from the Central Labor Union and chartered by the American Federation of Labor.

"The Socialists of Philadelphia, as in all other parts of the country, contributed as liberally as other trades unions did. They did as much, they did no more. I have no desire to discuss the relative merits of the trades unions and Socialism. I recognize the right of every man to believe as he pleases. I take it for granted that the wage earners in this country are abundantly able to determine for themselves to what political party they shall belong. I wish to say that I regard it as a very great mistake on the part of our Socialist friends to attempt to say to what political party they shall belong. I wish to say that I regard it as a very great mistake on the part of our Socialist friends to attempt to commit this movement to the principles in which they believe. In my judgment it would hurt the trades union movement. Whenever the trades union movement has been connected with a political movement, the trades union movement has been subordinated to the political movement. It is important to the wage workers of this land that the trades union movement be kept in the ascendancy. It would be a sad day, indeed, if trades unions were made the tail end of a political organization."

Several speakers followed Mr. Mitchell, all speaking in support of the Socialistic resolutions. A motion was made to close the debate at 5 o'clock. An amendment, providing for the discussion to close at 2, was voted down and the motion to stop at 5 was adopted.

Henry White, of the garment workers of New York, favored the report of the committee on resolutions and criticised the position of the Socialists.

The convention was adjourned shortly after noon, until 2 o'clock.

EXCITEMENT SUBSIDING.

Diminution in Withdrawals from Pennsylvania Trust Company.

READING, Pa., Nov. 18.—The run on the Pennsylvania Trust Company continued today, but there was a diminution in the number of withdrawals. All were promptly given their money. Many came to withdraw their deposits, but when they saw the great piles of cash and the officials ready to accommodate them they left entirely satisfied. It is believed that by tomorrow the excitement among depositors will have entirely subsided.

TO PAY ADEQUATE CONSULAR SALARIES

Secretary Pierce Recommends Abolition of Fees.

Returns from Tour of Inspection Throughout Europe.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Having returned to the United States from a tour of inspection of the consuls and consulates of the United States in England, Holland, Belgium, France and Germany, Third Assistant Secretary of State Pierce has submitted a report to the secretary.

He says that our consulates in Europe are on the whole in excellent condition, and that the service compares favorably with that of any other country. The system of remuneration of consuls he found to be unequally distributed, but on the whole he finds that our consuls are inadequately compensated. The fee system of compensation he regards as an unfortunate feature, introducing an element of uncertainty into the consul's remuneration which is embarrassing and disquieting to him in the performance of his duties.

"However remote may be the temptation to abuse the privileges under which a consul retains for himself certain fees," says Mr. Peirce, "still the existence of such a possibility cannot be beneficial to the morals of the service."

He says there is no little strife among neighboring consuls for the inclusion of territory into their respective districts, in order to secure notarial fees, the result being that, in place of that harmony and esprit de corps and the salutary exchange of views between consuls which should exist, he found the consuls not only out of harmony but hardly having relations with one another. This he says acts prejudicially to the interests of persons for whose benefit the consuls have been given notarial authority.

In the settlement of estates and other legal business, Mr. Peirce says the temptation exists, and not infrequently is yielded to, for the consul to supply or recommend legal counsel, receiving a division of the fees, and thus placing an additional tax on the client. He therefore recommends the abolition of all compensation to the consul by fees of whatever sort or nature, that all fees be covered into the treasury, and that adequate salaries be paid consuls.

Mr. Peirce regards as unfortunate the appointment of naturalized American citizens to the country of their origin in a consular capacity, not alone from the point of view of the government to whom they are accredited, which seldom regards such appointments with satisfaction, but from the point of view of efficiency. The employment of foreign clerks to consuls he regards as unwise, as it is highly probable that such a clerk owing allegiance to another government and recognizing none to our own, other than that of a taskmaster, would find the temptation to reveal matters which might be of the highest importance a strong one if inducements were offered him. He suggests that at the rate of $1,000 and in some instances somewhat more we could fill all these positions with bright young American citizens, if they were encouraged to feel that they had a reasonable prospect of promotion to the position of consul.

Mr. Peirce thinks that a considerable class of Americans look upon the consul as having been sent to his post to serve their convenience and obey their behests. While he found consuls ready and willing to oblige American tourists, often at great inconvenience to themselves, yet he says he discovered cases where demands on the consul have been most unreasonable and not always courteously presented.

The duty of consuls in dealing with immigration he declares are arduous and involve exposure to contagious and infectious diseases. As the consuls no longer sign the emigrant passenger manifests, it is possible for rejected immigrants to be taken on board a ship after the consul has given the ship a clean bill of health.

Mr. Peirce says that when the cost of bringing emigrants to the United States is concerned, steamship companies can well afford to take the risk of rejection of immigrants by the authorities on arrival in this country. He concludes by remarking that the conditions in Germany with regard to emigration afford a greater protection to the United States from the importation of emigrants than do those of Russia, Poland and Oriental countries.

THE DIETRICH SCANDAL.

Further Charges of Sales of Postoffices Against the Senator.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 17.—Now that United States Senator Charles H. Dietrich has been indicted by the federal grand jury for alleged trafficking in postoffice appointments, politicians and ex-postmasters in towns and cities not before mentioned in connection with the investigation are sending to District Attorney Summers information of sales and attempted sales into which they maintain they were urged by Senator Dietrich. The grand jury will investigate the charges that the offices at Orleans, Arapahoe, Oxford and Alma were sold, but here the labors of the grand jurors will cease so far as they concern Dietrich.

The sum which it is alleged Senator Dietrich realized from disposal of appointments approximated $10,000. The amount which the grand jury accepted as correct in the Hastings case is $3,500. The note given by Jacob Fisher, the Hastings postmaster, to Senator Dietrich is looked upon as damaging. At Orleans, Alma, Oxford and Arapahoe, $1,000 is the sum which Senator Dietrich's "man Friday," State Representative Lowe, is alleged to have charged for his endorsement. It is known that more than three other cases have been submitted to the district attorney where the purchase price was alleged to have been $1,000.

Before the grand jury completes the hearing of the Dietrich charges, information which Attorney Summers has now in his possession regarding an alleged statement by Senator Dietrich as to the amount of money he would make the office of Senator yield him may be brought to his notice and consideration. In signed letters, Mr. Summers has the statements of reliable men describing a banquet of a private character attended by Senator Dietrich and a number of friends. In their presence and hearing the Senator, according to statements made to District Attorney Summers, declared he would make $25,000 out of the Senatorship.

The politics of the case are interesting, because of the bitterness with which the two factions fight. District Attorney Summers is holding over in office from last year, when his term expired, owing to the inability of Senators Millard and Dietrich to agree as to his successor. Senator Millard insists that Mr. Summers be re-appointed. Senator Dietrich has just as insistently advocated the appointment of Chairman Lindsay of the Republican state committee.

M'CLELLAN SPOKE FOR CUBA.

Lack of Interest in the Treaty Measure Kills the Debate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Interest in the Cuban reciprocity question has so declined that it was difficult to keep up the debate in the House today, and both sides were almost ready to vote without waiting until Thursday afternoon, the time appointed. It would be difficult to continue the debate until that time, now that it is a foregone conclusion that it will go through without amendment. The opposition in the Senate has also decreased, and the prospect of getting the bill through the Senate next week is reasonably good.

The irreconcilable difference of opinion among the Democrats in the Senate and the Democrats of the House on the Panama question guarantees the ratification of the Panama treaty and the passage of any legislation that may be required. This question may not come up in Congress until the regular session, but it is evident now that while the administration is to be criticised for the manner of doing what it has done, the results will be approved by all except the out-and-out advocates of the Nicaraguan canal.

The only notable incidents of the day in the House were the speeches of Mr. Stevens, a Republican member from Minnesota, who spoke in opposition to the bill, and the speech of Mayor-elect McClellan of New York.

THE NEW CHALLENGER.

Said to be Kenneth M. Clark of Glasgow, with a Watson-Designed Boat.

GLASGOW, Nov. 17.—While it is impossible to secure a direct statement as to the identity of the Clyde yachtsman who proposes to challenge for the America's cup in 1901, it is practically certain that Kenneth M. Clark will challenge and that George L. Watson will design the yacht on condition that Mr. Clarke be allowed to challenge under the British rating rule of the present New York Yacht Club rule.

Mr. Clark is a director of Coats, limited, and has large business interests on both sides of the Atlantic. The family has led Scottish yachting for a quarter of a century. During the trip of the Shamrock II Mr. Clark issued a challenge for any stakes, as an independent test of the value of the challenger against his cutter, Distant Shore.

DISTILLERY IN A CELLAR.

Boston Internal Revenue Officers Make a Haul in Portland.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 17.—Through the efforts of Boston special officers of the internal revenue service, who have been working on the case several weeks, a rum distillery, in full operation within two miles of the business center of Portland, was discovered this afternoon. Two arrests were made at the time of the discovery and tonight a third suspect dropped into the net in the earliest fashion.

"It is one of the slickest pieces of apparatus I have ever seen in the revenue service," Chief Kincaid remarked as the officers were inspecting the still. "The capture is well worth all the time we have spent in working up the case."

Chief Kincaid confiscated not only the still and the stock but the whole property—house, stable and contents and the land they occupy, as he was entitled to do under the revenue laws. He officially placed the property in custody of Deputy Collector N. P. Haskell of Portland, who placed Edith David Harmon of the United States court in charge as keeper. The two prisoners were brought to Portland and placed in jail. When they reached the city they were identified as David Albert, the junk dealer, and his daughter, Miss Rose Albert.

When the Boston officers came into the case they probably anticipated the capture of bigger game than a family of Portland Hebrews, who had never before been under suspicion of crime. The Alberts used very few of the living apartments of the house. There was a cot in the kitchen and another in an adjoining room. A few articles of clothing were in the closets. A kettle of soup was stewing on the kitchen stove and the head of the family was partaking of a very frugal lunch when interrupted. His daughter had been reading a yellow-covered love story. They denied any knowledge of what the basement contained.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Rev. George W. Willis, evangelist and lecturer, will conduct a series of revival meetings at the Friends' Church, beginning this evening at 7 o'clock and continuing nightly until further notice. He has been in the evangelistic field during his entire ministry, laboring with great success among all denominations, both pastors and newspapers speaking in cordial and complimentary terms of his work, from some 40 different places. He will preach Sundays, November 22 and 29.

Mr. William J. Dunn is spending a few days in New York.

The storm came very inopportunely for the harvest supper which was to have been given by the sewing society of the Methodist Episcopal Church last evening. Arrangements had been made for a tempting supper and a short entertainment. The harvest supper at Oakland hall this evening, it is hoped, will be more fortunate.

Mr. W. J. Dunn went to Brockton and Taunton last week with his automobile, and from thence to Framingham, where the machine broke down and he was obliged to leave it for repairs and come home by train.

Mr. Stephen Griffith and son of Taunton were in town Sunday, as were also Mr. and Mrs. David McElvie of Newport.

PERSONALS.

....Julia St. George, known as the "Grandmother of the Stage," died of chronic alcoholism at the St. Pancras Workhouse, London, aged 80 years. She played Pauline to Irving's Mehotte in 1859.

....At St. Peter's Church, Albany, yesterday, Miss Ellen Herndon Arthur, daughter of the late Chester Allan Arthur, former President of the United States, became the bride of Charles Pinkerton of New York. Mr. Pinkerton is a graduate of Williams. The ion is a graduate of Williams. The church was crowded with a fashionable gathering. Bishop Potter of New York and Rev. Dr. Walton W. Battershall officiated.

....The woman who writes under the style of Helen Mathers has just come into what may prove a considerable fortune. Through the courtesy of Messrs. Macmillan the rights in "Comin' Thro' the Rye" have now reverted to the authoress. "Comin' Thro' the Rye" was thoress. "Comin' Thro' the Rye" was written in the seventies of the last century, before Miss Mathers was 21. It was as great a surprise to the family as "Jane Eyre" was to Charlotte Bronte's father, for it had been written in secret. "Comin' Thro' the Rye" immediately became popular, and was soon translated into several languages. Its author became Mrs. Henry Reeves by marriage in 1876.

....Edwin Lord Weeks, a well known American artist, died in Paris Tuesday. He was born in Boston in 1849. Mr. Weeks was the recipient of many Continental honors. He became a chevalier of the Legion of Honor in France in 1896. In 1891 he carried off the grand diploma of honor at Berlin, and he was the possessor of many medals won in Paris, Munich, Dresden, as well as the gold medal of the Philadelphia Art Club. He carried off a special prize and medal at the Empire of All India exhibition in London in 1896. He was a prominent member of the Paris advisory committee for the World's Columbian Exposition. Besides the printed records of his travels he published "From the Black Sea Through Persia and India" and "Entombs of Mesopotamia." For many years he had been a resident of Paris, where he was highly esteemed by the American colony.

SHORT SKIRTS.

All skirts except those for dress occasions are made shorter and follow the "round line;" and although long trailing skirts are still favorites for evening wear, many frocks for elaborate "functions" are now being made without a train, cut round and just clearing the floor. Strappings, beads, bands, and even rows of buttons will be used extensively on skirts for the season. The hip yoke is far too becoming and altogether too smart to lose its popularity, and many of the best gowns are made with this feature, which may be carried out in numerous artistic ways. Shirring in sections on skirts is still a leading feature, especially in cloth gowns, and all the soft silks.

VELVETEEN POPULAR.

Velveteen is to be popular this winter, and it has been brought to such a high standard by manufacturers that many prefer it to velvet, as it "wears better," costs less, is less stiff, drapes gracefully, and is modish. A smart walking costume is of mouse colored velveteen, trimmed with sable. Another is of golden brown velveteen, trimmed with mink. Both of these gowns have hats in fur to match, mounted with art buckles and a spray of velvet foliage.

WOMEN GAMBLERS.

Fewer Than There Used to be in Wall Street Because of Discouragement Given Them by Stock Brokers.

[New York Mail and Express.]

"No," said the Wall street broker, "the fact that stocks are still on the bargain counter is not attracting female buyers in great numbers. As for these sentimental stories of women gamblers on the exchange, they are stuff and nonsense.

"My firm has a few women clients, as have most of the other houses on the street; but we do not solicit the business, as most of it is distinctly undesirable. Women love to gamble—perhaps the instinct is even stronger in them than in men—but they are very bad losers. When we are requested to buy stocks as an investment for some woman we are glad to execute the order, but when a woman asks us to make speculative sales or purchases for her account, no matter how ample the margin she offers, I make it a point to refuse the business where it can be done without giving great offense.

"Latter experience has taught me that when a loss is reported to a woman customer, unless she is the one woman in a thousand, she feels she has been defrauded in some way she cannot understand. If you bet candy against gloves with a woman on the result of some athletic or sporting event she does not expect to pay the forfeit if she loses, and it is this principle that she would like to apply to Stock Exchange transactions.

"Then, a woman can not resist the temptation to buy stock just because it is cheap, without regard to its intrinsic value. To her a share of stock or a stock certificate is just a printed piece of paper, very little different from any other piece of paper with the same amounts printed on it. So, if she can buy shares of the Windbag Development Company at five or thereabout, she does not see the desirability of New York Central, Pennsylvania, or other dividend paying stocks selling above par.

"I do not think that the number of feminine speculators in the market is increasing, despite the incursions of women into other lines of business. A few years ago Hetty Green was such a spectacular figure in the street that other women were attracted by the success of her bold operations. But when Mrs. Green ceased to take an active interest in stock fluctuations most of the others got out of the game.

"Of course, we hear of occasional big winnings in copper or the like made by some actress. Most of these transactions are made on a basis by which the woman can not lose. Some broker who claims her friendship calls her up on the telephone and says that copper is a cinch, and if there is a loss the broker stands it himself. Outside of this class the number of women in the speculative market is small, and seems to be on the decrease."

OTHER PEOPLE'S CHILDREN.

Training of the Young Not a Pastime or an Amusement, but an Interesting Problem to be Solved.

[Anne H. Colver, in New York Post.]

Is there any subject on which people develop more theories than on the training of children—chiefly of other people's children, I notice. They may fall utterly in bringing up their own, or even have had no practical experience with a child. That in no way deters them from advancing positive opinions if they do not go to the point of offering advice. The theories sound well, the results expected most satisfactory, but when you come to apply them the colt jumps the traces, kicks, balks, or takes the bit in his mouth, and you are lucky if you keep the reins in your hands and are in at the finish.

A little experience was told to me a few years ago that includes a story that gives the best answer I know to those who criticise the training a conscientious parent is giving his child. In returning to a town formerly her home, a lady took, with some pride, her boy of seven to pay his respects to a former family physician. They were accompanied by a near relative, who was fond of the boy and was herself a kindergarten teacher. They had barely exchanged the usual courtesies, when the boy espied in an adjoining office an operating chair that worked up and down with a crank, and soon had it in active operation. The kindergartner, despite her training, turned to the doctor and said: "Now if that were my child, when we came into your office, after saying 'Good morning,' he would sit quietly in his chair until we were ready to leave."

"He would be a terribly uninteresting child," replied the doctor, who had five children of his own and knew a good specimen when he saw one. In the meantime the boy was moving the chair up and down so even his mother was exchanging glances with him, meant to be restraining, but proving non-operative. "Leave him alone," said the doctor, "the chair as well as the boy is made of good stuff, and they'll get on together." Then, turning to the kindergartner, he said: "The time has come for me to tell you one of my pet stories. It's a little pointed, but you need it, and you need it now." They were good friends and knew how to give and take in good part, and she was all attention as he began: "When I was studying medicine down in Baltimore I knew an old black 'mammy'; she had a mulatto son who had been the trial of her life; much of her slender earnings had gone to rescue him from difficulties; these misdemeanors grew with the years into violations of the law, and there came a time when she could not rescue him from a trial for petty larceny. She knew him to be guilty, but she still hoped that her lawyer could save him by some wisdom unknown to her. To her great grief the defence failed, and the boy was found guilty. The judge, in sentencing him to the reform school, thought it was a good opportunity to read a lesson on the proper bringing up of children; he enlarged on the boy's career, the failure of his mother to teach him honesty, throwing all the responsibility on the poor mother until the wretched woman could forbear no longer, and rising in her place, she said: "Jedge! I want tuh ask you one question."

Permission being granted, she said: "Has you got a yaller boy?"

The judge hastened to assure her he had not "a yaller boy."

"Then," she said, pointing her bony finger at him, "then shet up!"

The philosophy of the whole question is in her homely reply, and it is to be regretted it has no elegant equivalent.

That "yaller" streak! Is there any faithful parent making an earnest study of his child that does not see it crop out? If it is some trait with which he has wrestled in his own life that he finds transmitted, is it not reasonable to suppose he can meet it with a knowledge, a patience and a charity that is utterly lacking in the unknowing critic?

Undoubtedly the "yaller" streak complicates the problem of training, soon convincing us the study of a child's development is not a pastime or an amusement, but a most interesting problem for our solution, not to be delegated to any one else, unless we make a failure of it. Each child is as distinct a personality as an adult; in dealing with him we need careful consideration of his heredity, environment, health and temperament. Given a child with an average equipment and a conscientious parent, and we obtain the most heavenly relation on our sphere. All faith is mirrored in the trust of the child, and the knowledge he has that the parent loves him in spite of all his perversities is his first apprehension of the love of God. The primary object before the parent always is the development of character in the child, and without a reciprocal faith and end is never attained.

Tremendous demands are made on right living in the parent, precept has no value unless example is back of it, and there is a mysterious influence in personal contact not imparted or gained in any other way. What possibilities of comradeship there are between parent and child! Is there any more desirable companion for a walk or drive than an interesting, well-bred child? They see everything, have a delicious sense of humor, and a surprising sense of values in people and things.

The parent finds new interests in the child's new points of view, which may need correcting, but are still interesting. A zest is given to life, and in the home life is what some one has aptly named a "lump of fresh yeast in the family dough." E. S. Martin, in "The Luxury of Children," says: "For any one to be able to choose a group of people out of the various millions on the earth as those with whom he would prefer to live, and live with them, seems a momentous privilege. Yet it is a privilege millions of people in ordinary circumstances enjoy. Whom would I live with if I had my choice? With Mr. Kipling, Mr. Dooley, President Roosevelt, and the Emperor William? These strenuous gentlemen would make an interesting company. The talk would be good; but after all they would not be my choice. My preference would be to live with Jonas, Clementine, Blandina, and their mother. I am more interested in them than in other people; their purposes in life fit in better with mine, and habit has made them more tolerant of my company than other folks would be. I like my own best to live with, and you like yours, and Jones and Smith like theirs. We all have our choice, and live most with the people we like best, giving praise to our Maker that natural affections, which are comparatively easy to command, should be so incomparably desirable."

"ODD CRAFT."

Fourteen short stories, tinctured with the flavor of the sea, are dedicated to Jerome J. Jerome by the author, W. W. Jacobs. They are rather mediocre in character, the English sailorman, who puts on and leaves off his h's in the wrong places, who smells of rum and is always getting into a fight, being a prominent figure in the majority of the stories. They are intended to be humorous, but in many cases the humor is so broad as almost to assume a vulgar tone.

Among the best in originality of conception are "Lawyer Quince" and "Blundell's Improvement," both of which have less of the objectionable features. In the first the lawyer in giving advice to a farmer is caught in his own trap, involving his own son, but later turns the tables in an ingenious way, in which he is aided by the farmer's daughter. The second is a story of two rivals in love. The father of the girl tries to help out the apparently less favored of the two, by advising him to perform some deed of heroism that will appeal to his daughter's heart, and is kind enough to suggest a plan, instructing the lover in all the details. The older man is not wholly disinterested, as he wishes to marry a certain woman, but he knows this will be impossible until his daughter is out of the way. The young man takes the father's advice, but makes one change in the program, with the result that the father becomes the victim of the plot.

LADIES' SHIRRED BODICE.

No. 6029—The popularity accorded the bolero effects remains undiminished and those who cannot boast of the number of their inches will find this pointed bolero a contribution to the apparent height of their figure. The bodice has a shirred yoke, in drop shoulder effect. The shirring is outlined by fancy bands, which may be omitted if plain shirring is desired. The bolero is simply shaped to the lower shirring. The pointed effect is also carried out in the sleeve. A fitted lining is provided and, if desired, an all-over lace sleeve may be worn. The bodice blouses very prettily over a rather high belt. There are no intricacies in the pattern. It is constructed on simple lines and the home dressmaker will experience no difficulties in making up a charming waist. The materials suited to the mode are many, as any of the thin sheer stuffs of silk or light weight woolens will give excellent results. Sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

WHAT HE WAS WRITING FOR.

F. Marion Crawford, the prolific novelist, was introduced to a young woman recently. Hearing that he was a novelist, she said:

"And have you written anything that will live after you are gone?"

"I don't know," he replied. "You see, what I am after is something that will enable me to live while I am here."

DAILY NEWS PATTERNS.

10 CENTS EACH.

Accurate patterns of the designs illustrated in the Daily News can be had at the uniform price of ten cents each. These patterns are reliable models of the newest and most popular styles now worn.

Illustrations and full directions for cutting and making up accompany each pattern. There is a piece for every part of the garment to be made, number and name of the different pieces in the pattern, and complete instructions, so that any one who can sew can make a neat and perfect-fitting garment without difficulty.

Order patterns by number, and state size desired. Waist patterns come in the following sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inch bust measure. Skirt patterns come in the following sizes: 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 36 inch waist measure. If for misses or children give age also. If the measure is accurately given, the pattern will fit perfectly, requiring only the usual dress-making alterations in trying on to suit high or sloping shoulders, etc. All orders will be promptly filled. Ten cents (silver or stamps) for each pattern desired must be sent with order. Address all communications to Pattern Department, Daily News Office.

A HAUNTED HOUSE.

[Theodosia Garrison, in Life.]

Love came to me grown sadly wise,
With little longing in his eyes,
Yet missed I naught, mine own so dim,
So blind, for very love of him.

He gave me housing in his heart—
Alone I live in every part.
Yet everywhere there seems to spring
Signs of another's tenanting.

I may not know her name or face
Who made this heart her dwelling-place.
Yet everywhere there seems to stir
The shadow of the thought of her.

Strange in this house of mine I rest
Forever an unwelcome guest,
Feeling her silent enmity,
That mistress whom I may not see.

Owner and stranger have I stayed,
Defiant and yet all afraid,
For they have dreams too strange to tell
Who in a haunted house must dwell.

Then stir in gradually the juice of half a lemon, one pint of grated pineapple and a third of a cupful of sugar. Let simmer five or six minutes; then gradually pour over one egg beaten very light without separating. Return to the fire to cook the egg if needed, and then turn into a well buttered, shallow dish, having the mixture half an inch in thickness. When cold cut or stamp out into such shapes as desired. Dip each in batter and fry in deep fat until colored a delicate brown. Drain on soft paper and sprinkle with powdered sugar or serve with a sauce.

ROTATION IN PUBLIC OFFICE.

The extent to which politics is allowed to enter into municipal management was forcibly shown in the last election when in a certain Massachusetts city the argument was presented in all seriousness against the re-nomination of the mayor for a third term that two years is long enough for any man to hold the position of chief executive of a city, and at the end of that time the incumbent of the office ought to retire and allow some one else to enjoy the honors and emoluments—especially the latter, for it is the spoils system that dictates such a policy as this. The view thus taken of public office is purely the commercial one, and the idea is that every faithful party follower so far as possible should be given his turn at the public crib. Such a conception leaves entirely out of consideration the fact that the public business is for the public good and not for the purpose of rewarding the faithful and giving them a comfortable support at the people's expense. It ignores, too, the further fact that the municipality is a business corporation in an important sense, and that its affairs should be managed on the same principles that obtain in the business world—the principles of economy and honesty and a broad view of the public good.

These are trite statements but there evidently is need of their frequent reiteration, and even with that they fail to be appreciated by a large number of the members of the body politic. The business firm or corporation that should discharge its employes, especially those who hold important positions of trust, simply because they had had a couple of years of opportunity to earn a good salary, and on the theory that the places they occupied ought now to be given to some others for a time, would be considered entirely incompetent and thoroughly deserving of early ruin, but there is a failure to regard in the same light a similar attitude with regard to the business of a city, though the analogy between the two is close. The fact is that if a mayor has shown himself a faithful and capable official the longer he remains in office and acquires experience in the management of municipal affairs the more valuable he is to the city and the longer he should be retained in its service. If on the other hand the mayor has proved himself to be inefficient one year is too long and the sooner a change is made the better, but for the sake of the city and not of some office seeker. The demands of place hunters should have no weight in municipal politics and partisan grabs for the spoils should be unknown.

Unfortunately this ideal condition has yet been reached in comparatively few municipalities in this country, though abroad its realization is not uncommon. Somehow across the ocean, however, there is not such an itching for public office as there is on this side and better results are consequently reached in city government. Perhaps such a happy day will come some time to us also, but as yet it appears to be far in the future.

ONE MAN AGAINST THE UNION.

In the one-man fight against union which has been going on for three years in the Penrhyn slate quarries in Wales, the one man has won. Lord Penrhyn has stood for what he considered justice, and has refused to recognize the rights of a union above his own right to manage his own property in his own way. He has been apparently oblivious to the loss entailed by the mass men refusing to work for him, preferring to live on a smaller income rather than to dicker with his men. He has asked nothing of outsiders, having been without political ambition, and has clung only to his right to be let alone in carrying on his affairs, when he has determined to do without interference from union leaders. Being abundantly able to wait until the mills of the gods ground in his favor, he has conquered by doing little more than sitting still. He would not be bullied. He would not consent to any arbitration that was proposed in a matter that seemed to him wholly his own concern.

Lord Penrhyn may have been wrong, and he may have been right, in this course of ignoring the unions. He certainly has been successful in shaking off the walking delegates, and in employing the workmen he wanted, and in finally being able to run his quarries as if there were no unions in existence. It must be said in his favor that no complaint of injustice to his working force has been truthfully made against him. He has been neither patronizing nor grinding in his relations to his employes. The union has been able only to prove his offence of not showing a proper respect for its dignity and importance, and his refusal to receive its committees. This has been the cause of the long years of strike and the consequent suffering from dire poverty of the strikers and their families.

THE CRUSHING WEIGHT OF THE "DEAD HAND."

Legislation and judicial construction have done a good deal to relieve the living world of the burdens of mortmain, but there has not been much interference with fantastic wills, though testators are occasionally proved to have been non compos mentis, or to have made invalid bequests. Oddly enough, the invalid wills have often been made by lawyers.

The courts of New York have refused to deliver a widow from a ruinous will which it would seem as though public policy might have been invoked to set aside. The interest that some people take in providing for the preservation and the marking of their remains is pretty hard to understand, but there are persons who will spend fortunes in making places where their bodies shall be kept, just as there are persons who make their own coffins. One would suppose that a person could leave this sort of thing to those who survived him and not care a great deal even if they shirked their duties.

In a case that has recently been tried in the York courts, including those of appellate jurisdiction, a man provided in his will that his widow should erect a monument to cost $25,000 over his grave. He was then wealthy and his wife would have been amply provided for. But before he died he lost most of his property, and he died worth a little over $30,000. She tried to get the will set aside, and if there ever was a case where the courts should have found a way to set aside a will this was the one. But they did not, and the widow has spent her husband's estate in building a monument and is left destitute. There was never anything more contrary to public policy than that. If she had neither built the monument nor appealed to the courts, who would have interfered? Her dead husband could at least have waited for his monument until his widow, who could have lived on the income from his small property, had followed him to the grave.

NOW IS THE TIME.

The holiday buying season is upon us, though the average Christmas shopper does not yet realize this but is waiting for the breathless hurried scramble that in the shopping region precedes Christmas day, and makes that period a distress alike to the clerks and customers. The Consumers' League is out with its usual protest against the habit of putting off until the last moment the Christmas shopping which every one knows has to be done, and which can very much better be done now than a few weeks later. The League is working in the interests of the store forces, but early holiday shopping is a great relief to the buyer as well as to those who have to overwork early and late to meet the demands of people who cannot take time by the forelock, but must destroy their own Christmas pleasure by making the holidays a weariness to mind and body.

Some late Christmas shopping there must be. To this no one objects, all regarding it as a necessary evil. The thing to avoid is leaving the whole burden to those last days when the stores are crowded to their limit. Shopping under these conditions cannot be a success. The moral is that it is wise to shop soon in order to preserve tranquility, and to avoid making the salespeople wish Christmas other than what it is, an occasion for keeping up a custom of gift exchanges, a custom which must have a good spirit back of it or it would not endure under the abuses that come about through it.

A NEW ORANGE.

The indefatigable Agricultural Department has at last succeeded in getting a cold-climate orange. This does not mean that the new product is quite adapted to the ordinary New England winter, but it can be grown in Florida without fear of the occasional frosts that visit that state, and in much more northern regions. In all, it is thought to be fitted to the climate of at least 20 states in the Union. A fair frost does not injure the tree, which is deciduous, drops its leaves in winter and ripens its fruit in the summer season.

The new orange cannot be described exactly as a luscious fruit. It is very pithy, getting this characteristic from its Florida parent, but it is also sharply sour and has something of the peculiar taste of the grape fruit. It is smaller than the famed Florida orange. But the department means to accomplish something better than even this very acceptable new orange, and in time give us a mild, sweet fruit that will grow without danger from frost that does not penetrate far into the ground.

OUR PANAMA POLICY.

President Roosevelt and the members of the cabinet have determined that the administration policy regarding a canal at Panama can and will be carried out, without asking additional legislation by Congress. It is claimed that existing law furnishes all the legislative authority for acquiring the Panama route that can be asked, and that there is no question of the President's right to acquire the needed concessions in a treaty with the republic of Panama.

The presence of the commissioners of Panama in Washington is evidence that negotiations for a treaty will be pressed to a conclusion and it is probable that some financial compensation will be made to Colombia, either by the assumption of part of its debt by Panama or the payment by Panama of a portion of the money that will be paid by the United States for the concessions under the treaty that is made with Panama.

The debate in the House of Representatives over the Cuban reciprocity bill is lagging and a vote may be had before tomorrow afternoon, the time set when the discussion was started. Yesterday Congressman and Mayor-elect George B. McClellan of New York, a Democrat, speaking in support of the measure, criticised the administration of General Wood in Cuba and charged the Republicans with responsibility for what is lacking in the fulfillment of the duty of the United States to Cuba. But he said there is an argument in favor of the enactment of the bill which rises above all others, and involves the duty and the honor of the United States.

Professor Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the Agricultural Department, who has personal charge of the enforcement of the new law prohibiting the importation of adulterated food products into the United States, says the government has gone far enough to show that, as a whole, the law is thoroughly satisfactory. The enforcement has shown American importers that they have been imposed upon and swindled, and did not know it, and they in turn have unwittingly committed a fraud upon the American consumer. The importers are actively collaborating with the government inspectors to make the law effective.

Sir Thomas Lipton's defeats in his attempts to win back the America's cup seem to encourage rather than discourage challenges from British yachtsmen. A fourth aspirant for the honor of lifting the cup appears now in the person of Kenneth M. Clark, a Scotchman, and the challenge is said to be "sure" in time for a race next year. Really, Americans do not care for another contest; but they can be depended upon to defend the cup.

Senator Money of Mississippi made a record yesterday, introducing more bills in one day than have ever been presented by a member during an entire session. The measures numbered 235, of which all but 25 were claims against the government, and the 25 were pension bills. All the bills presented by Mr. Money were for money, and if enacted into law would cut a very large hole in the government finances. They probably will not become laws.

The Republicans and Democrats of Springfield, Mass., are uniting for the re-nomination and re-election of the mayor of that city.

BROWN BREAD FOR DYSPEPTICS.

A writer in the New York Tribune says: For the greater part of the last 17 years I have been obliged to forego bread and everything containing yeast. I know nothing of the use of malt, but have found the bread made by the recipe given below palatable, strengthening and easy of digestion, and I have made it one of my chief articles of diet for several years. It seems to me very easy to make, but the last eight months I have been confined to my bed with Pott's disease of the spine, and have had to depend upon others for my bread. We have changed "help" several times, and I find the new cook does not succeed very well the first time. That is why I have written out the directions so carefully. I have suffered so much and so long with indigestion, I feel great sympathy for others who have similar trouble.

Sift together one and one-half pints of entire wheat flour, one even teaspoonful of salt, one of soda, slightly rounded; one scant teaspoonful of cream tartar. Use nearly half as much cold water as flour. Stir with a spoon. Turn into a buttered pan. Steam from half to three-quarters of an hour; then bake very thoroughly in a moderate oven one hour or longer—it cannot be overbaked. The next day slice and dry it. If you do not like it browned, it will be safer to leave the door open while drying. It is a long, tedious process. The bread should not be put away until every particle of moisture is gone. Then, if kept in a tight tin box or pail by itself, it will be tough and stale at once, and one such slice will spoil the whole.

The steaming, if properly done, insures the bread being light. It is not needful to use much coal, but the fire should be bright, so that the water in the kettle will boil hard, especially the first 15 minutes. Do not have the kettle more than one-quarter full of water. The steamer should fit closely. Do not lift the lid while the bread is steaming. If needful you may add coal, and heat the oven after the bread goes in—it will not fall. One who cannot eat Graham bread can use entire wheat. This bread can be made with white flour. If white flour is used take a scant spoonful of soda instead of the slightly rounded spoonful called for with entire wheat flour.

THE ENGLISH ON AMERICAN GIRLS.

[Boston Transcript.]

If the marriage here of an American heiress to a titled person does give curious folk on this side something to talk of, and perhaps dream about, it appears that it furnishes certain Britishers a fine opportunity to work off some of their accumulated bitterness against the way the world is going with them. As for ourselves, we've actually forgotten, or shall forget by the end of this week, who the "contracting parties" were to the latest international marriage, but the subject is very fresh in the minds of some English women writers, apparently. It is fresh anger and well nursed, too, or it never could have broken out in such bold vituperation as Marie Corelli uses to say what she thinks about American girls. And yet it is doubtful if girls anywhere have borne more patiently with this writer than have our own. They have ever been kind to her faults, overlooking them whenever possible, and now she positively turns on them. Considering all the facts her attitude does seem a bit ungrateful,

AROUND RHODE ISLAND.

News and Notes of Interest and Importance from All Parts of the State.

At the most largely attended meeting of Warwick taxpayers ever held in the town it was voted yesterday to build a $50,000 high school, with General Charles R. Brayton as chairman of the commission entrusted with the construction of the new institution. The proposition to appropriate $100,000 for two high schools, one to be located in the Valley, was voted down. $37,500 was appropriated for day schools, $31,500 for macadam roads and a new bridge at Apponaug, $9,000 for the tuition of Warwick children in out-of-town high schools, $10,000 for a sewer at Riverpoint and the town council was restricted to the expenditure of $2,000 for the police department the ensuing year. The special appropriations, including those for day and evening schools, aggregate $131,000, and the tax rate was fixed at 75 cents on $100, a rate which will yield in revenue at least $50,000 less than the total amount voted to be laid out under special appropriations. Propositions to raise the tax rate to 85 cents and $1 on $100 were voted down.

Colonel Patrick Henry Quinn tendered his resignation as chief of Governor Garvin's personal staff yesterday, giving his reasons therefor in a letter to the governor, in which he requested that the resignation take effect at once. Colonel Quinn says his position as chairman of the Democratic state central committee and that of one of the members of the governor's staff have made too insistent demands upon his time during the past few months and have necessitated more or less neglect of his private business. For this reason alone he feels that it is advisable to give up the staff position. He has been unable, he states, to turn out more than once in three times when the governor requested the presence of his personal staff, and even then at considerable personal inconvenience. As his home is at Riverpoint, attendance with the staff on some occasions in the evening has caused him to be away from home over night, which he does not like, as he desires to be at his Riverpoint office evenings. The number of occasions for staff appearances during the next few weeks is considerable, and Colonel Quinn preferred to resign as colonel rather than from the chairmanship of the Democratic state central committee.

Four members of the Sophomore class of Brown University are at the Rhode Island Hospital suffering with typhoid fever and the student body is rather uneasy about the matter, inasmuch as no cause has been assigned for the spread of the disease. The men ill are Harvey M. Kelley of Bradford, Mass.; Charles S. Huff of Little York, N. J.; Thomas R. Marshall of Scoville, N. J., and William Leroy Lillie of Lebanon, Conn. The college authorities and students are at a loss to assign any particular cause for the illness of the students, and so far as can be learned are not fearful of an epidemic of the sort which visited Cornell University in Ithaca, N. Y., last year. Frequently the source of typhoid fever is traced to drinking water, but in this case there is apparently no foundation for theorizing on that point, as the four students room in different houses. In none of their cases has the disease developed to an alarming stage, but the surgeons say that at best typhoid fever is a dangerous disease to handle. The doctors say they will be unable to state for at least a week just how serious the condition of the four college men is.

Yesterday afternoon the worsted weaving and finishing mill of the Simson & Kirkaldy Company of Woonsocket was sold at public auction by order of the assignees. The plant was purchased by James D. Colt, a Boston attorney, who is a son of Judge L. B. Colt and a nephew of Colonel S. P. Colt of Providence and Bristol. Mr. Colt said after the sale that he represented a syndicate of Boston capitalists and that the mill will be started very soon in active manufacturing. He did not say whether the mill will be run as a weaving and finishing mill or as a plant for the manufacture of yarns, and inquiries as to just what will be manufactured at the plant were met with non-committal answers.

The shooting of certain small birds in this state is now punishable by law in pursuance of a comparatively new statute, and Augustus Smith of North Providence found that the bagging of one blue jay was a costly proceeding. He was fined $10 and costs in the Sixth district court yesterday for killing the bird. The costs attached to a case brought in from North Providence are about double those required in city cases, and it probably cost Mr. Smith not less than $15 to square accounts with the outraged law. He admitted shooting the bird but said he supposed he had a right to go gunning for it because he was on his own land.

Sergeant Arnold L. Potter died yesterday of pneumonia at his summer home in East Providence, after an illness of but a week. He was a son of Roger Williams Potter and Sarah (Langley) Potter, and was a descendant in the seventh generation from Roger Williams. Mr. Potter was born in Providence in 1833 and received his education in the public schools. He followed the trade of a cabinet maker for many years. More than 40 years ago Mr. Potter became a member of the First Light Infantry and was an active member of the militia up to last summer. He attended almost every encampment since 1861. He was for many years the quartermaster sergeant of the First regiment of the brigade. After the First regiment left the brigade he asked for his discharge from the latter, and obtaining it remained with the infantry, holding the position of quartermaster sergeant up to the time of his death. Last summer Mr. Potter went down to camp as a guest and for the first time in 10 years attended the annual encampment without a uniform and as a non-participant rather than as a soldier of the Brigade. Mr. Potter was the best known and one of the oldest milliamen in point of service in the state. He served for 25 years as armorer of the First Light Infantry and was always considered a fixture in the regiment. He comes of a military family. His father was high sheriff of Providence county at the time of the Dorr war and two of his brothers have served for a long period in the First Light Infantry.

Captain S. A. Goodspeed, 85 years old and one of the best known citizens of the town of Cranston, dropped dead last night from heart disease. The deceased was born in Newport. His parents dying when he was young, he was apprenticed to a doctor of the old school. Not taking kindly to the study of medicine, he ran away to sea and did not return to Rhode Island again for 25 years. He circled the globe on board vessels six times and at the outbreak of the Civil war enlisted in the service of Uncle Sam. After the war he lived for four years with the Crow Indians. Coming back to Rhode Island finally, he established himself on Weybosset street as a phrenologist, but, as he put it, he couldn't make a living ashore, so he listened again to the lure of the sea. On the shore near Buttonwoods there was a little building and some land which had come to the captain by inheritance, and when he decided to make an end of seafaring it was there that he established himself, living for many years the life of a hermit. He says the property was stolen from him. At any rate, he lost it, and found a haven with the people of the house in which he lived until his death. During the past few years it had been his habit on Tuesday nights to walk from his home in Sprague ville to the terminal of the Dyer avenue car line near the Print Works on Cranston street to meet one of the members of the family. He invariably carried a lantern to light her on her way home. It was while he was waiting for this woman that death overtook him last night.

BUNNIE WOULDN'T DO IT.

[Birmingham Post.]

Dorothy was heard talking to her rabbit.

"Five times five," she said. "Six times six, seven times seven." Between times she shook the rabbit violently.

"Dorothy," said her mother, "what are you doing to your rabbit?"

"Well, papa says," replied the child, "that rabbits multiply rapidly, and Bunnie won't do it."

That Pale Face Tells you that you need iron and you can have it in the most approved and agreeable form by taking the new iron tonic, Peptiron Pills. They ironize the blood, and that means they give the face, lips, cheeks, and ears a good, healthy color, and strengthen and tone the whole system.

They are a specific for all anemic conditions, nervousness, sleeplessness, dyspepsia, poor circulation, cold hands and feet. Needs Iron

They are pleasant to take, acceptable to the stomach and readily assimilated, a perfect boon to delicate women and girls, invalids and convalescents.

Peptiron Pills (Chocolate coated)

"I have been taking Peptiron Pills six weeks," said a grateful lady "and am realizing great benefit, feel stronger, and know by what my friends say that I look better. I am glad my confidence in Hood's Sarsaparilla led me to take Peptiron Pills."

Peptiron Pills, 50c. or $1, the latter a full month's treatment. Prepared by C. I. HOOD CO., Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass.

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, Nov. 18, 8 A. M.—Local forecast—Fair tonight and Thursday; colder; fresh to brisk westerly winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The storm that has been moving northeastward over New England has died out and passed into a weak area of low pressure, confined this morning to northeastern sections. The weather today continues generally cloudy in the Middle states, Lake region and Northeast, with light rain or snow at scattered stations. The precipitation of the past 24 hours has been confined to these districts, and has been in light to moderate amounts. In other parts of the country the weather has been fair. The temperature is lower in nearly all sections. This morning the coldest reported is 24 degrees below zero in northern Montana, and freezing temperature extends south into the northern portion of the Gulf states. At 8 a. m. in New England the temperature ranged from 24 degrees in the northwestern portion to 40 on the southern coast, at New York it was 42, Washington 38, New Orleans 40, St. Louis 14, Chicago 14, St. Paul 4, and Bismarck zero.

OPPOSES DOCTRINE OF RECIPROCITY.

Address of Secretary of Home Market Club.

Officers Elected at the Annual Meeting in Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—The doctrine of reciprocity was frowned upon in the report of Colonel Albert Clarke, the secretary, at the annual meeting of the Home Market Club, a leading Republican protectionist organization, here today. Another feature of the meeting was the non-appearance of the name of Eugene N. Foss of Boston in the list of officers. His term as director expired this year, and he was not re-elected. Mr. Foss attained much fame in the last Congressional campaign, by defeating Melvin O. Adams as a candidate for Congress in the Eleventh district and running on a reciprocity platform. Although the district has been generally in the Republican column, Mr. Foss was defeated at the polls by the Democratic candidate.

At the meeting Major Charles A. Stott of Lowell, a member of the executive committee, presided in the absence of President Charles H. Hutchins. The first business taken up was the election of officers. They include:

Robert T. Davis, Fall River, president; vice presidents, the former presidents and Stephen A. Knight, Providence, R. I.; William W. Crapo, New Bedford; John B. Smith, Hillsboro Bridge, N. H.; Lyman R. Goff, Pawtucket, R. I.; William M. Wood, Boston; Leontine Lincoln, Fall River; F. A. Sayles, Saylesville, R. I.; E. G. Morrison, Tilton, N. H.; S. A. Jenks, Pawtucket, R. I.; William H. Bent, Taunton; Charles A. Stott, Lowell, and others. Directors, term expiring in 1906, Webster Knight, Providence, R. I.; William A. Russell, Lawrence; W. H. Ames, North Easton; to fill vacancies, terms expiring in 1904, Arthur Wheelock, Uxbridge; Rufus A. Soule, New Bedford. The secretary-treasurer is chosen by the directors.

Secretary Clarke in his report said: "I regret to have to report a net loss of 53 in our membership during the last fiscal year. The number of members November 1 was 1,350, and since then there have been some gains.

"At a recent meeting a leading free trader of Boston asserted that there is no protection literature in the library of Harvard University, or in the Boston public library which he claimed as evidence that scholars reject it. The statement is not true, whatever the fact may have been some years ago; but if it were true, instead of its being a proof of scholarship or of the soundness of free trade, it would be a proof of bigotry and ignorance and of a fear to submit their invincible arguments for protection to the examination of impartial seekers after truth.

"The contention that protection is responsible for trusts, though previously rejected by the well informed and unprejudiced, has this year received a death blow by the collapse of many trusts and the continuance of the tariff to encourage their independent domestic competitors.

"Protection is not responsible for the labor difficulties and market speculations which chiefly have brought a check to the abounding prosperity of the last few years. It was the main cause of the prosperity and of the numerous advances which were made in wages, and to this extent it may have been responsible for some of the discontent which arose when labor thought it was not getting its share.

"The most interesting economic event of the year is the movement in Great Britain, under the lead of Joseph Chamberlain, late secretary for the colonies, for a return to the protective policy and for preferential tariffs within the empire. It is worth something to have the disasters of the free trade policy recognized by the most intelligent men in that country.

"Whatever strength there was—and I think it was but little—to the agitation in this country for reciprocity with Canada, must be subdued by the unmistakable preference of Canada for imperial federation."

Mr. Clark criticised the action of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association in endorsing a project in favor of reciprocity between the United States and Canada. The secretary thought that reciprocity would work to the disadvantage of farmers and fishermen and of no benefit to manufacturers.

CONTRACTED IN SWIMMING TANK

Eight Cases of Typhoid Fever Among Brown University Students.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 18.—Eight cases of typhoid fever have developed among the students of Brown University during the present week, and great uneasiness is felt among the collegians that there may be an epidemic of the disease. The first case reported was that of W. G. Winsor of Evanston, and he was removed to his home in that city Monday. Four more cases had developed last night, and today three more students were seized with the disease. The three new cases are Roy E. Smith, '06, of Bristol, N. H.; C. W. Smith, '05 of Worcester, Mass., and Joseph C. Bailey, '06 of this city.

The sick men are being cared for at the Rhode Island Hospital, and while none of the patients are dangerously ill, a crisis in the course of the fever is yet to come. It was reported this evening that Michael Lynch, of Holyoke, Mass., the crack pitcher of the Brown base ball nine, had contracted the disease, but the physician in attendance denied the rumor, saying that the patient was suffering from a very severe cold.

The college medical staff are of the opinion that the disease may have been contracted in the swimming tank, and steps are being taken to put an end to the further spread from that quarter.

ON WAY TO ABYSSINIA.

American Expedition Lands at Jubutil, French Somaliland.

JIBUTIL, French Somaliland, Nov. 17.—United States gunboat Machias, on her arrival here yesterday, with the United States Abyssinian expedition, chartered by Consul General Skinner, of Marseilles, immediately landed the 30 men composing the expedition, who will leave here tomorrow by rail for the capital of Abyssinia, Adis Abeba. The governor will give a dinner and reception tonight in honor of the Americans. The French authorities have cordially greeted the members of the expedition. The Stars and Stripes are flown from the government house and from many buildings in the city.

BIDS FAREWELL TO AGENTS GENERAL.

Joseph Chamberlain Holds a Reception at the Colonial Office.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Joseph Chamberlain, the former colonial secretary, held a reception at the colonial office today to bid farewell to the agents general of the colonies. Mr. Chamberlain said he had now almost the assured conviction that he had been able to convince his fellow-countrymen that it was to their advantage to adopt his fiscal policy.

COLD WAVE IN THE WEST.

Mercury Registers 13 Above Zero in Various Parts of Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 18.—The cold wave that has prevailed throughout the West during the past few days spread over Ohio last night, with the result that the mercury is reported today as low as 13 above zero at various points in the state. In this city a furious snowstorm accompanied the cold wave.

ABSENCE OF STRIKE TALK.

Noticeable Feature of the Mill Situation in Fall River.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 18.—The absence of strike talk continues to be a noticeable feature of the mill situation here. Tonight the weavers, spinners and other unions hold meetings to act on the pending reduction of 10 per cent in wages, but it is not believed that more than one union will vote to stop work, and possibly none of the unions will take radical action.

CHASE—CURTIS.

A pretty wedding took place last evening in the presence of a large gathering at the Second Baptist Church, which was decorated with palms and flowers. The parties were Stephen Wanton Chase, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen G. Chase and a brother-in-law of Chief of Police Richards, and Miss Mabel Morse Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Curtis of Rose Island. The groom was attended by Mr. Lewis Merritt as best man, and the bride by Miss Eva McElvie as bridesmaid, while the ushers were Messrs. Harry C. Christian, F. Scholl and William McLynman. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Samuel Curtis, and a reception, at which about 75 were present, followed at the home of the groom's parents, on Dartmouth street. There were many useful and handsome presents. Mr. and Mrs. Chase have a pretty home on Ledyard place.

Y. M. C. A. ATHLETIC CONTESTS.

The committee on gymnastics and athletics, consisting of P. L. Bailey, chairman; J. W. Blaine, secretary; W. S. Pitman, T. J. Biesel and P. F. Watterson, met at the Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium last evening to outline the work for the coming winter season. The secretary was instructed to correspond with the Bristol, Providence, Pawtucket, Fall River, Taunton and New Bedford Associations to arrange for contests. The committee hopes to arrange a meet, later in the season, of the principal Young Men's Christian Association teams of this section to decide the championship of southern New England. Newport won the championship at Boston, March 31, 1898.

The committee is planning a series of novel and entertaining contests to begin immediately after the close of the present Chromatic League. Beginning next Monday evening, a number of new and amusing games will be introduced after the regular events. It has been decided to make Monday visitors' night, and it is hoped that friends of the contestants and all others interested in gymnastic work will take advantage of this opportunity to become better acquainted with the work that is being done.

—The engagement is announced of Miss Josephine Drexel to Dr. J. Duncan Emmet. Miss Drexel is the daughter of the late Joseph Drexel, and her sisters are Mrs. Harry S. Lehr and Mrs. Eric Dahlgren.

—Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., have closed their country place at Great Neck, Long Island, and returned to their house at Madison avenue and Fifty-seventh street, New York, for the season.

—Fifty new desks have arrived for the high school. Twenty-five will be used in the Rogers and the others in the Coles building. They are on skees, so that they can be moved, and are supplied with regular high-backed chairs with rubber tips.

—At the reception given to Rev. Richard A. Greene by the Walter Lowrie Club Monday evening, the members of the Hugh Beaver club for young women were guests, and the beautiful basket of flowers presented to Mr. Greene was the gift of this latter club.

—Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt has left New York for Washington with her sister, Lady Herbert, who has gone there to superintend the removal of her possessions from the English embassy, preparatory to the arrival of Sir Mortimer Durand, next week.

UNABLE TO AGREE.

Jury in the Hirshfeld-Gray Suit Reaches No Decision.

Anthony Trials Stopped, and All Three Damage Cases Said to Have Been Settled.

The common pleas division of the supreme court opened early this morning, Judge Blodgett presiding. Drs. Stewart and Sherman were appointed by order of the court, to examine Miss Anthony, in the case of herself against Mr. Gray.

The Hirshfeld-Gray trial was resumed and all jurors not in the case were excused until 12 o'clock. Mr. Curran called Dr. Isodor Ritter of New York, a graduate of Cornell University in 1900, with practice at Bellevue Hospital. He was called to see plaintiff about 12 p. m., July 1. Found him in bed, a little drowsy, in a condition of shock; pulse weak and rapid, 120; respiration 20. He was bruised, skin torn off his hands, thigh and leg on left side bruised. Next day he was vomiting and the swelling was more noticeable. He could retain no food and the condition of shock continued. Next day a painful swelling appeared that looked like an abscess. It disappeared later, but recurs. He remains slightly nervous and is not fully recovered. Has tremor of the hands since the accident. See him once or twice a week. Went every day for 12 days. Saw him probably 25 times in all. Have not seen him at all since November 6, except last Saturday and today.

Colonel Sheffield argued for defendant from 9:50 and Mr. Curran for plaintiff from 10:53.

The court charged from 11:30. Each side contends that the other ran into it. The plaintiff must prove his contention to the satisfaction of the jury, upon the law and the evidence that has been admitted in the case, by a fair preponderance of evidence. The number of witnesses does not necessarily determine; one witness may be more accurate, or candid, or disinterested than another. If the scales hang evenly balanced, the verdict must be for defendant. There is no question that plaintiff was thrown out and injured to some extent. In this state, he must show that he was not negligent. In some accidents the law affords redress, in some it does not. Some accidents are inevitable; both parties being in the exercise of due care; there is no redress. There is none if both are negligent, even if plaintiff was only a little negligent. If he is solely to blame, he cannot recover. If one drives purposely into an open ditch he cannot recover. If the jury finds plaintiff was not negligent and defendant was, the question of damages comes. In that event plaintiff is entitled to be made whole for money loss, etc. Take the photographs and see which side's contention fits the photographs.

As to special charges, requested by counsel on both sides, the court felt compelled to decline to grant any of them. Everybody smiled at this, and counsel rose, one after the other, and asked to have exceptions noted, which was of course done. Jury Keeper Romes led out the jury at 11:48.

The other jurors were then allowed to come in and a panel was made up to try the cases of James E. and Sarah T. Anthony vs. Edward Gray, alias, it being agreed to try those cases together. Two men called (both colored jurors) had not yet returned, having been excused until 12, but counsel desired that they be counted as part of the panel. Both came in before the panel was completed, and one was challenged.

Mr. Curran stated the cases for plaintiffs. By a singular coincidence Juror Weeden, another colored juror, stated that he had heard so much as to form an opinion. He had to be excused. There was some challenging, which resulted in getting eleven men, when the clerk announced that he had no more to call. The court ordered a venire for all available Newport jurors to be brought in at 2:15 and took a recess to that time.

The jury in the Hirshfeld-Gray case came in at 2:05 and reported that they had been unable to agree on a verdict.

Proceedings in the Anthony cases were stopped, and it is said that all three cases have been settled.

The court adjourned at 2:30 to 9:30 a. m., Thursday.

APPRENTICE BOYS ARRIVING.

Though the new detention and disinfecting building at the Training Station is not yet quite ready for occupancy, boys are being received at the Station and are quartered in the old gymnasium until the new building is ready, which will be in a few days. Already about 80 boys have reached the Station from recruiting points. It was supposed that none would come here until the new building was ready for them.

DURFEE—PECKHAM.

St. George's Church was the scene this afternoon of as simple a church wedding as it was possible to arrange. At 3:30 o'clock Miss Charlotte Stanton Peckham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Peckham, and Mr. George Nightingale Durfee, Jr., of Fall River entered the church from their carriage and proceeded to the chancel rail, where they were met by Rev. G. W. Laidlaw, who read the nuptial service. They returned to their carriage and were driven to steamer General, on which they departed on their wedding trip. The bride was of course attired in traveling costume. There were no ushers or bridesmaids, or best man. From 2:30 o'clock to the hour of the ceremony Mr. William T. Rutherford, Jr., gave an organ recital, during which there gathered a large number of friends and acquaintances of the bride.

THE WALDORF-ASTORIA CUP.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—With brighter skies, conditions were more auspicious for the horse show at Madison Square Garden today. The feature of the day is the Waldorf-Astoria cup, for the best horse suitable for a gig, driven by the owner, which has become recognized as carrying the championship of light harness horses. For the past three years the cup has been won by Lord Brilliant and another victory tonight will ensure the permanent possession of the cup by Lord Brilliant's present owner, Dr. L. Wentz of Scranton, Pa., by whom the horse has been exhibited for the past two years. The competition, however, will be keen. The show today started with preliminary trials for 25 hunters and 40 jumpers.

DEATH OF HENRY B. HAZARD.

Mr. Henry B. Hazard, an old and well known citizen of Newport, died at his home on Church street last night, after an illness which had confined him to the house about four weeks, being incident to old age. He was 88 years old. Mr. Hazard was a member of a large family, one brother, James L. Hazard, having died four years ago last October, and another, George A. Hazard, two years ago. A sister, Mrs. George A. Armstrong, is the only survivor of the family. Mr. Hazard leaves five children, three daughters and a son, Henry B. Hazard, Jr., residing in Newport, and another son, Arthur Hazard, living in Boston. A grandson, Lawrence Hazard, also resides in Boston. Mr. Hazard was a large owner of real estate in the vicinity of Brinley and Fillmore streets.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

J. K. Sullivan has completed the work of driving the spiles for the government wharf at Boston Neck, Narragansett. Mr. Wood of Jamestown, who now has charge of the work, has the tops of the spiles trimmed and timbered out to the end. The wharf is being built with a view to strength, and when finished will be as strong as it is possible to make it.

Several Jamestown young men gave a subscription dance at the Gardner House hall last evening. There were about 30 young people in attendance, who made up in enthusiasm for the lack of numbers, which was due to the storm. Music was furnished by the Howard orchestra and refreshments were served. Dancing was continued until 2 o'clock.

Invitations have been issued for the roll call to be held at the Central Baptist Church tomorrow evening.

Miss Etta Wright is suffering from concussion of the brain at her home at Conanicut Park.

Messrs. John J. Watson, William F. Caswell and Charles T. Knowles are in Providence today.

This morning, as Mr. Jared Woodmansee was driving along Narragansett avenue, he was surprised to see a deer come out of the swamp around Isaac Clarke's pond and cross the road in front of him. The deer, which was a half grown buck, continued on his way up north. It must have swum over from the mainland, as there have been none kept on the island since Mr. J. B. Lippincott's deer was accidentally shot. A deer was found dead on the rocks near Beavertail last winter, where it had been washed up by the tide.

Sergeant and Mrs. William E. Stanley and Sergeant and Mrs. Charles H. Dean of Fort Greble have gone to Salem, Mass., on recruiting duty. Sergeants Charles E. Thayer and Albert Hatje returned yesterday from Milton, Mass., where they secured two recruits.

The Senate yesterday confirmed the nomination of John B. Landers to be postmaster at Jamestown for four more years.

Miss Florence A. Cole of Providence is guest of Miss Queenie V. Smith.

MORE CHICAGO CARS. PUT IN OPERATION.

Association of Street Railway Employes, said:

"I will not recommend a general strike, but should the proposition be put up for the men to vote upon, there is a strong probability that they would vote to strike. This is especially true of union traction men, who feel justifiably indignant over tactics used by their company to aid the City Railway Company in the present strike."

Except for a few stones on the tracks there was no attempt to delay the Indiana avenue cars on their way to the business centre from the barns at Thirty-ninth street.

Neither strikers nor their sympathizers were present in any great numbers, and the street presented almost its usual appearance. On the return, however, considerable delay was caused by the "short circuiting" of the line.

STRONG TALK OF A STRIKE.

Dominion Iron & Steel Company Announces Reduction in Wages.

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, Nov. 18.—The Dominion Iron & Steel Company, Sydney, has given notice of a general reduction in wages and salaries of all its employes. The notices posted to that effect read as follows:

"Beginning with December 1, 1903, all wages and salaries of the employes of the Dominion Iron & Steel Company will be reduced from 10 to 33 1-3 per cent. Common laborers will be paid $1.25 per diem. David Baker, Manager."

The bulletins issued to the machinists notify them of a reduction of 15 per cent and furnace men of 20 per cent. The reduction will affect every man on the plant, from officials to laborers.

The workmen do not take the notice of the reduction in good part and strong talk of strike is already heard. The employes generally are members of the Provincial Workingmen's Association and a joint meeting of lodges has been called to discuss the situation. It is thought that the matter will be referred to the grand council for final decision.

It is stated by the managers at Sydney that the cut was made necessary by the announcement of the United States Steel Corporation that a revision of its salary list was to be made, the Dominion company being compelled to reduce expenses in order to compete with its American rival.

WILL COST $200,000.

Clubhouse for Workingmen to be Built in New York Next Spring.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—This city is to be the home of the most costly clubhouse for workingmen in the United States. Plans for the structure, which is to be in East Eighty-fourth street, near Third avenue, have been filed with the city authorities for approval, and it is expected that construction work will be started early next spring. The clubhouse is to be five stories high, 100 by 102 feet in area, and is to cost $200,000.

Facilities for mental and physical culture are to be the best obtainable. A gymnasium, class rooms, lecture rooms and library are provided, and it is the intention to have regular courses of lectures, debates and studies for members.

A large ballroom will be arranged with a stage for theatrical entertainments and musicales, while on the first floor there will be a bar and cafe with reading and billiard room. The Workingmen's Educational and Home Association of New York will carry out the project.

WITH IMPOSING CEREMONIES.

Mortuary Chapel of All Souls in Boston Dedicated.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—The mortuary Chapel of All Souls, erected at the Church of the Advent here as a memorial to the late Rev. Harold E. Addison, one of the curates of the parish, was consecrated this forenoon with imposing ceremonies. The chapel, which is the only one of the kind in the Protestant Episcopal Church in New England, is to be given over largely for the use of strangers and others having no place in which to leave the bodies of friends and relatives while awaiting interment. It will also be used for funerals and requiems.

Rt. Rev. Charles Chapman Grafton, S. T. D., Bishop of Fon Du Lac, Wis., and a former rector of the church, vested in cope and mitre, performed the ceremony of consecration. A solemn high mass in the church followed. The celebrant was Rev. Father W. H. Van Alen, the rector. Father Frederick C. Powell, of the Church of St John the Evangelist, was deacon, and Father Anderson of Roxbury sub-deacon. A sermon, in memory of Father Addison, was preached by Rev. Father C. S. Hutchinson of St. Luke's Church, Chelsea, an associate of Father Addison in the Oblates of Mount Calvary.

After the services, the Catholic Club of Massachusetts met in the Advent parish house, and the priests associate of the confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament were addressed by Bishop Grafton, superior general of the latter order. The bishop has just returned from a visit to Russia, made in the interest of closer relations between the Russian and Greek Catholic and Anglican churches.

NEAR-BY TENANTS IN A PANIC.

Six-Story Factory Building in New York Destroyed by Fire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Fire destroyed the six-story factory at 358 and 360 Broome street today, and caused a panic among the tenants of the surrounding tenements. About 60 families joined in a frantic rush to the street, and all carried some of their belongings with them. Fortunately none were seriously injured.

The fire had gained such headway when the firemen arrived that little or nothing could be done to save the buildings, all efforts being directed to save adjoining property. The total damage is estimated at $50,000. This is the sixth fire that has taken place in this building in five years.

STATE BANQUET TONIGHT.

King Victor Emmanuel and King Edward Shoot Pheasants.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—King Victor Emmanuel and King Edward spent the morning shooting pheasants in the great park at Windsor. Queen Helena and Queen Alexandra visited Queen Victoria's tomb at Frogmore, on which Queen Helena deposited a wreath.

There will be 150 guests at the state banquet tonight in St. George's hall, Windsor Castle. Only two toasts will be proposed, King Edward and King Victor Emmanuel toasting each other.

Convention of Diocese of New Hampshire.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 18.—The one hundred and second annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New Hampshire opened in St. Paul's church at 11 o'clock this morning, with the service of Holy Communion. The annual address of Bishop William Woodruff Niles, reviewing the work of the year, showed two churches consecrated, 270 persons confirmed and one admitted to the priesthood.

Arrested for Forging Money Order.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—On the charge of rifling United States mail boxes and forging a United States money order, John Blair, 35 years of age, was arrested at a Clark street hotel last night. He was taken to Buffalo, where he is said to have operated.

A DAY NURSERY.

A private day nursery is the money making scheme of a middle aged woman in New York, a spinster, who prefers to earn what she can under her own roof to joining the army of women who go out to schoolroom, office and store. This spinster noticed that there were a great many mothers who, for various reasons, were unable to provide themselves with nurses or caretakers for their children, and who consequently had to choose between staying at home or being bothered by their little ones when they went calling or shopping. So she sent notes to her friends and acquaintances to the effect that she would be happy to undertake the care of their little ones at any time they wished for a certain sum an hour. So many mothers responded and kept on responding that now she has all the work she can attend to. No special nursery was fitted up, but a warm, sunny room was equipped with a hammock, some toys, some kindergarten chairs and a folding crib. The room remained just one room in a home, not an apartment in an institution.

INDIVIDUALITY IN ENTERTAINING.

[Edwin Markham in Good Housekeeping.]

Next to extravagance, conventionality and want of discrimination are the evils that lock elbows with our modern hospitality. The dinner party is too often "a feed," lacking all individuality on the part of both host and guest. It begins with the elusive oyster and runs on in monotonous rhythm through perhaps a dozen courses to the invincible coffee. It is safe to aver that this is practically the sort of dinner that is being served at every other function in the city upon that date. It has not the note of distinction, the artistic "approach" and climax that a simpler menu might insure. It is the old Ichabod Crane "spread" over again, only a trifle less sugary. I, indeed, have pleasant memories of a table so simple that it had only one chief dish looming up like the Peak in Darien, with a few adjuncts surrounding it to give poise and gradation.

As "the ornaments of a home are the guests that frequent it," so the noblest condiment of a table is the talk that circles about it. The heavy dinner is likely to be a fell destroyer of the winged thought. Cyrus of Persia commanded his host: "Prepare the banquet on the side of the river, and let one loaf of bread be the only fare." Who would dare entertain a friend in this Arcadian simplicity today?

FASHIONS IN FURS.

Fur hats and toques of all the popular furs are to be more in vogue than ever. Of course, the fur chosen must match that of the stole and muff or the wrap or coat. Mink with cream or golden roses; chinchilla and violets, or any of the furs used for hats, mounted with shaded ostrich plumes or a Paradise aigrette, gives a rich effect, and may be effectively worn with any street or carriage gown.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. Louis Hess of the Bee Hive is in New York.

—The Misses Skinner have gone to New York for the winter.

—Lieutenant Commander L. C. Logan, U. S. N., has returned to Washington.

—Mr. and Mrs. Seth Barton French have returned to New York from the Virginia Hot Springs.

—Mr. Edwin H. Tilley has received news of the death of his niece, Mrs. Eugene W. Knight, in Providence.

—At the New York horse show yesterday Mr. Reginald C. Vanderbilt's White Oak Maid was awarded first prize in class 45, for brougham horses.

—A. F. Campbell, George F. Chase and Eugene A. Hart of Little Compton; W. N. Miller, Andrew McDonald and W. H. Robertson of New York; John D. Mason of Boston; William Blackmore and A. W. Harvey of Philadelphia and James E. Wallenford of Chicago are registered at the United States Hotel.

—Mr. and Mrs. James Mahoney have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Abbie Agnes, to Mr. J. Joseph M. Martin at St. Joseph's Church Thursday, November 26. A reception will follow at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Mahoney on Gould street.

—Training ship Alliance has been ordered out of commission.

—Despite the storm the funeral of Orland Freeborn was largely attended at East Providence yesterday, the Universalist Church being crowded. It was a simple service, there being neither bearers nor singing. A eulogy on the life of the deceased was read by Hon. Daniel R. Ballou. Bucklin Post, Grand Army of the Republic, attended in a body.

—The magazine supplement of the Denver, Col., Saturday Evening Times for November 14 contains a double page of photographs of Indians, taken by James B. Brown, Jr., formerly of this city. The pictures are of Apaches, Ogallalla Sioux and Utes, and represent the subjects in characteristic costumes and attitudes, and make a very interesting collection.

—Since the Island road adopted an hourly running time there has been some complaint and some patrons have been seeking a return to the half-hourly schedule, but the company has not yet been convinced that the patronage of the road demands such service.

—Preparations are being made at the City Hall for placing the winter treads on the stone steps.

CATARRH CURED WITHOUT DRUGS

Hyomei Medicates the Air You Breathe, Kills the Germs and Cures the Disease.

Hyomei cures catarrh thoroughly and permanently, because it reaches the smallest air cells in the head, throat and lungs, kills the germs causing the disease and drives it from the system. Hyomei goes to the root of the disease, destroys the cause, and makes permanent cures which can be effected in no other way. Breathe it for a few minutes four times a day and benefit will be seen at once. Continue this treatment for a few weeks and Hyomei will have cured you.

The Hyomei breathed through the neat pocket inhaler furnished with each outfit mingles with the air you breathe. It is a local and direct treatment for eradicating all catarrh germs in the mucous membrane and tissues and in this way cures catarrh in any part of the system. Used in connection with Hyomei Balm it has been successful in curing the worst and most deep-seated cases of catarrhal deafness.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c.

Stronger than any claims that can be made in an advertisement is the fact that James T. Wright will give his personal guarantee with every Hyomei outfit he sells to refund the money if the purchaser can say that Hyomei has not given satisfaction.

TO RECOVER $84,606.

Western Sugar Refining Company Sues Collector of Internal Revenue.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 18.—To test the constitutionality of the act of Congress entitled "An Act to Provide Ways and Means to Meet War Expenditures and for Other Purposes," approved July 13, 1898, the Western Sugar Refining Company has filed suit in the United States circuit court against John C. Lynch, United States collector of internal revenue, to recover $84,606 with interest. It is contended that the act makes an illegal, unjust and arbitrary discrimination founded on the pretended differences between the business of manufacturing sugar and that of refining the same between the complainant and other firms refining sugar.

Crawford Cooking-Ranges

The improved Dock-Ash Grate, perfected Fire-Box, and Single Damper (patented) furnish perfect baking with less fuel than other ranges.

It is easy to keep the fire over night and by a half turn of the handle clear it in the morning as bright as if freshly kindled.

The Cog-Wheels of this Improved Grate are outside the fire-box, protected from heat and ashes.

BOTH FATALLY WOUNDED.

Duel Fought Between Two Men Armed with Pistols and Stilettos.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—A duel between men armed with pistols and stilettos was fought in Archer avenue last night. When the battle ended both the participants had received wounds which were pronounced fatal. Frank Russo, 18 years of age, and Ferdinand D. Vininento, 21 years of age, met in front of Russo's rooms. They had long been enemies, it is said, and without a word of warning they rushed at each other. Vininento fired as he ran, and Russo stabbed him as he himself fell. Thirty people standing near by saw the battle and policemen who came had to beat their way through the crowd. Anthony Russo was arrested for complicity in the crime.

TO MAKE TARIFF PAY THE SUBSIDY.

Elkins' Scheme to Aid the Merchant Marine.

Grosvenor Occupies Same Seat in House 14 Years.

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Elkins idea is growing. At all times he has claimed that the most feasible way to encourage American shipping is to grant 10 per cent reduction in duty on all goods brought into this country carried in American ships. While he has acquiesced in the Hanna ship subsidy bill, he has maintained that the successful and practical way would be to make our tariff duties pay the subsidy. Once when the matter was being discussed in the committee on commerce Elkins said discrimination was the most feasible plan offered. "Elkins," remarked Senator Frye, "you are the only man in the United States who advocates such a plan, and you ought to know that it is wholly impracticable." And Elkins only smiled expansively. But a great many people are coming to his way of thinking. Several failures of the subsidy bill have convinced many men who want to aid the American merchant marine that some other plan should be tried.

In this connection I heard a Senator get off this one on Senator Hanna. "I was a great campaign you had out in Ohio, Hanna," he said and, turning to the surrounding group, continued: "Why, there was Hanna making his campaign wholly on the ship subsidy bill, and Tom Johnson making his on the single tax question, both dead issues." After they stopped laughing at Hanna, the latter said, "Well, you just stay around here, and if you think the ship subsidy bill is a dead issue you will find out where you are mistaken."

When Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming arrived in Washington he at once began a campaign to make Reeder of Kansas chairman of the committee on mileage. Whether it was due to the persuasiveness of Mondell or not, Speaker Cannon selected the Kansas man for the place. It was known to only a very few on the inside that Mondell's interest in Reeder was not wholly impersonal. Reeder was the ranking member of the committee on irrigation and, according to all precedent, was entitled to be chairman of the committee. Mondell wanted the place, and so he began a campaign to give Reeder another chairmanship and was successful. Mondell will be chairman of the irrigation committee.

No liquor of any kind is sold in the Capitol building. It is pretty dry for a great many, but the vast majority do not suffer, for there has not been much drinking by Senators or members in many years. But, just as it happens in many prohibition states, as soon as it is announced that men cannot have a drink of liquor and are restrained by law they are determined to have it merely to show that they are not to be restricted by anybody. The result is that there is more than one committee room where a real thirsty man can get a nip, especially if he knows the ropes. Really and truly, the House had no idea it was shutting off liquor in the restaurant when it placed a prohibition amendment to the immigration bill, but the Senators let the provision remain in the bill.

General Grosvenor has occupied the same seat in the House for 14 years. It is on the aisle to the left of the Speaker, a position which gives him a commanding place when addressing the House. Sometimes the general is fortunate enough to have his name called early in the lottery, and he selects his seat. But, if not, some friend always takes it early and trades with Grosvenor. They say they want "Santa Claus" to have his favorite place.

House luxury is everywhere apparent. A few years ago the committee rooms of the House were bare and poorly furnished. The contrast with the Senate was marked. Now it is all changed. The members of the House, instead of being strict economists, decided that they might as well enjoy the finely furnished committee rooms, the easy chairs and the mahogany finish that had so long been characteristic of the upper branch of Congress. The House members like it now that they are getting used to it, and they do not intend to be behind the Senate hereafter in the matter of comforts.

Among the popular "up state" Congressmen, as members from New York above the city are termed, is James S. Sherman, who hails from Utica. Sherman is one of the best presiding officers in the House and has been selected by different speakers to preside over the committee of the whole when there were breakers ahead requiring a good parliamentarian in the chair. Sherman presided when the Cuban bill was before the house in the last Congress and ruled the Morris amendment out of order. This amendment struck out the differential duty on refined sugar and was put forward to defeat the bill, which it accomplished, as Sherman was overruled by the House, although all his other rulings of a precisely similar nature were sustained. Sherman is likely to be sustained in this Congress if the same condition of affairs should arise.

A NEW PAPAL DOGMA.

[Marquise de Fontenoy, in New York Tribune.]

Pope Pius X is determined, it is said, upon the creation of a new dogma of the Roman Catholic Church, namely, that of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary. While the church has always encouraged belief in the Assumption of the Mother of the Founder of Christianity, it has never until now considered it as an article of faith or as a matter of doctrine, but rather as one of tradition, and it is as such that it has been celebrated as a festival of the church, August 15.

It is not certain where the Virgin died. A passage in a letter of the Fathers assembled in the General Council of Ephesus had been construed to mean that she was buried in that city, while according to other traditions she breathed her last at Jerusalem, where her empty tomb was shown to pilgrims in the seventh century. Still, notwithstanding the zeal of the early church in collecting and venerating relics, no relics of the virgin's body have ever been exhibited.

The empty tomb at Jerusalem and this remarkable absence of relics tend in the eyes of devout Roman Catholics to confirm the history which St. John Damascene gives of the corporal assumption of the Virgin, that is to say, her removal to heaven without becoming a prey to that corruption which constitutes the common fate of humanity after death, and St. John Damascene's testimony is corroborated by that of St. Andrew of Crete, and by many ancient martyrologies and missals.

There is a large element in the Roman Catholic Church, especially in France, Germany and England, which demands that this belief in the corporal assumption of the Virgin should be proclaimed as an article of dogma, and Pius X has resolved upon taking the necessary steps to accede to their views, with which he is in entire sympathy.

Nearly 50 years have elapsed since Pius IX decreed the dogma of the Immaculate Conception, and now Pius X is about to proclaim the dogma of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary. Indeed, the celebration of the golden jubilee of the dogma of the Immaculate Conception with great pomp and ceremony at Rome will be followed shortly by the proclamation of the dogma of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The Paradise Club will meet with Mrs. David Peabody tomorrow afternoon; topics, "Peter the Great" and "The Corona."

Mr. Howard R. Peckham entertained a party of eight at whist last evening.

Mr. J. Everett Kline has moved into the Howland cottage and Mrs. Benjamin Howland, who has been with Mrs. R. S. Peckham, has returned to her home, where she has reserved a few rooms for her own use.

The Middletown Free Library is now well patronized, the list increasing each month. The hours during which the library is open are: Tuesdays, 2 to 3:30 p. m.; Saturdays, 6 to 8:30 p. m. A new furnace has been put in, making the hall very comfortable. A check has been received from Miss Josephine Bailey of Morristown, N. J., to pay for furnishing the library. Mrs. Glyn of New York has presented the library with a complete set of Dickens and a subscription for two popular magazines.

MISTAKE IN ADDRESSING ROYALTY.

[Marquise de Fontenoy, in New York Tribune.]

Sir Thomas Lipton, in the telegraphic correspondence between himself and Emperor William, which has appeared in print, makes a rather odd mistake in addressing the Kaiser as "His Imperial Majesty Emperor William II." Now, it is absolutely contrary to all the rules and regulations of etiquette in addressing a sovereign to add the Roman numerals which distinguish him from his predecessor of the same name. Thus it would be altogether wrong to address the British ruler as "King Edward VII."

Nor do monarchs ever use these Roman numerals in signing their names, and the only case on record where this seemed to have been done was due to a printer's error. It was in the first proclamation of the present Kaiser's father. The late Emperor had signed his name and had added in his characteristic straight up and down writing the letters "I. et R.," standing for "Imperator" and "rex." The printer mistook this for the Roman numeral III, and when the proclamation appeared it bore the signature of "Frederick III."

TO LEAVE ENGLISH TURF.

Declaration of James R. Keene and His Son, Foxhall.

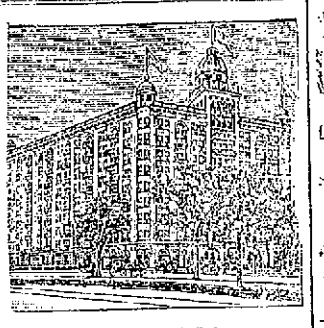

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—James R. Keene has personally confirmed the Associated Press despatch from London, announcing that he and his son, Foxhall, have decided to withdraw, for a time at least, from the English turf. Some of the horses, those having valuable stake engagements, will be sold and the remainder brought home. Mr. Keene declares that his trainer, as well as those employed by other American sportsmen, get lost in a multitude of perplexities that beset them on the English turf, and, further, are unaccustomed to methods suitable to the climate.

MEN LITERALLY BOILED ALIVE.

Lard Rendering Vat Collapses and Gallons of Grease Ignite.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Five workmen have been injured by the collapse of a huge lard rendering vat in a West Fortieth street establishment. Three of them probably will die. The men were at work in the basement when the bottom of a tank containing many gallons of scalding grease suddenly gave way and the men were literally boiled. Instantly the grease became ignited and soon the basement was in flames. The cries of the men could be heard by pedestrians in the street, and aid was quickly rendered by the police and firemen, but three of the men had been almost boiled alive before they could be rescued. The others were very seriously hurt, but probably will recover.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18, Wall Street—The stock market opened strong, with Amalgamated Copper at 38¾, Atchison 64⅝, Baltimore & Ohio 74⅝, Brooklyn Transit 36⅜, Erie 26⅜, Manhattan 139½, Missouri Pacific 89¼, New York Central 116¼, Ontario & Western 26½, Pennsylvania 112⅜, Reading 39, Rock Island 23, Sugar 118½, St. Paul 136¼, Southern Pacific 41⅝, Southern Railway 17⅜, Union Pacific 71¼, United States Steel 11, United States Steel preferred 50½.

10—Prices moved upwards with considerable vigor in the opening dealings on a moderate volume of business. Sugar led in the advance, with a gain of 1⅝, Brooklyn Transit and Colorado & Southern first preferred rose a point and Metropolitan Street Railway and St. Paul ⅞. The average gain was about half.

11—The advancing tendency of the market was checked by heavy sales of United States Steel preferred. That stock reacted almost a point to 50¾, as rumors that the price of steel rails would be cut, but the general market yielded only a small fraction. Large purchases were made at the lower range and the standard stocks rallied easily, to the highest. St. Paul, Atchison, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Reading and Metropolitan Street Railway scored gains of a point and Pacific Mail 2½. United States Steel preferred recovered to above last night's final price. Hocking Valley preferred rose 1 and Iowa Central preferred 1¾. Peoria & Eastern lost 1 and Chicago, Great Western preferred B 1⅝. The market came to a standstill at the rally.

Noon—Money on call, firm, at 5 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 6 per cent. A fresh decline to 50¾ in United States Steel preferred checked the advance elsewhere but it was resumed. Prices slowly hardened with some large transactions in Pennsylvania. Gains reached a point in Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Denver & Rio Grande, Wisconsin Central stocks and People's Gas. Southern Railway preferred and Wheeling & Lake Erie second preferred rose 1¼ and Great Northern preferred 3.

SEVENTEEN NAMES ON THE LIST

Petition Charging Block Island Electors With Fraudulent Voting Presented to the Governor.

The petition which charged 17 Block Island electors with fraudulently and unlawfully voting on election day has been presented to Governor Garvin in behalf of the Rose faction by Samuel Martin Rose, who was candidate for senator on that ticket. The names of 16 who are charged with illegal voting were not given out, but "the seventeenth man on the list," said Mr. Rose, "is George P. Baird of Providence, who cast his ballot here on election day."

The petition was placed in the hands of His Excellency only after the matter had been carefully perused by the legal advisers of the Rose faction, Comstock & Gardiner of Providence. Appended to the petition are the names of those whose votes were challenged at the polls by the leader of the Roses, but the ballots in all cases were cast in spite of the vigorous protest raised as to their legality. When the protest was first given to Comstock & Gardner the list contained 19 names, but since then the legality of two has been established and the names were taken off the list.

The Roses evidently took unkindly to the defiant attitude assumed by the alleged illegal voters, and assert that the measures being instituted against them would not have been begun but for the fact that the voters displayed exuberant freedom and independence, and, the Roses claim, revelled in the fact that their presence was repulsive to the opponents of Champlin. The antis claim that those persons are not bona fide residents of the town of New Shoreham, and are to receive special attention from the governor of Rhode Island.

Mr. Rose said that the petition was not delivered by him personally to the governor, but that it was placed in the proper hands. This petition had been drawn up for several days, and rumors were afloat a few days ago that it had been presented to the governor, but this was denied by Mr. Rose. Mr. Rose said he had wished to keep the fact a secret until after the petition had been delivered to the state executive, and authoritatively stated that it was now receiving the governor's most serious attention. The result of the governor's action is awaited by both parties with great interest.

BOWLING SCORES.

At the Narragansett alleys last evening Sullivan's team defeated Zarr's team three straight games. Bowler of the winning team was high roller with a total of 307, which included two singles of 95 each. Creaney of the same team made a single of 96. The individual and team scores are as follows:

Sullivan's Team.

In the Young Men's Christian Association tournament Teams Nos. 7 and 2 were to have played last evening, but team No. 7 did not put in appearance and team No. 2 bowled a match all by its lonesome, and won against a "bogey" score, each one of the players of the other team who did not make his appearance being credited with 75 on each string. The players you easily against this assumed score, the individual members falling behind only twice and then only one pin behind. Team No. 2 will be credited with three straight games won in the summary of the tournament. The score of the team was as follows:

Team No. 2

Adams,	85	90	82—	257
Sisson,	91	85	71—	247

MATERIAL FOR THE NEW ROAD.

The rails for the new road have now been deposited along Broadway nearly as far as the One Mile Corner, and the remainder of those which have arrived will be located along the streets also included in the company's franchise. Contractor Dugan, who is doing the hauling, had but 96 hours to remove the four carloads from the railroad yard, and so has been obliged to work during the rainy weather, though the handling of the heavy iron under such conditions made it unusually dangerous. It is expected that poles and other material for the road will be coming along within a few weeks, and it will not be surprising if before many weeks elapse cars also arrive, though up to the present time no arrangements have been made for a car barn.

MISS MARIE YORKE.

Miss Marie Yorke, who will appear as Dorothy Pemberton in M. W. Taylor's scenic production of Will C. Murphy's American society drama, "Why Women Pity," is an English girl, being born in Kent, England. When quite young she was sent to a convent in France, near Paris, where she received a thorough education, including special instruction in music and literature. After graduating from the convent Miss Yorke returned to England, where after a while she developed a decided talent for dramatic art. Friends convinced her that she ought to adopt the stage, and after considerable persuasion she was induced to accept an offer of an engagement from Wilson Barrett. Miss Yorke enjoyed the distinction of playing some of the leading parts in Mr. Barrett's repertoire, including roles of a highly dramatic sort, in comedies and dramas, with uniform success. Miss Yorke's costuming of Dorothy Pemberton is rich and has been the subject of commendation by both artists and the public.

RAN INTO THE AUTOMOBILE.

Chauffeur Did Not See Horse Till It Was In the Machine.

Defendant in the Hirshfeld-Gray Case Claims That He Was Not Negligent.

The Hirshfeld-Gray case occupied the time of the common pleas division of the supreme court yesterday afternoon. Judge Blodgett presided. It was a gas-light session, the cloudy weather making it desirable to light up soon after the proceedings began. Mr. Hirshfeld testified a little further, and that closed the evidence for his side.

Colonel Sheffield "opened" for defendant, claiming that the facts had not been correctly given and that there had been no negligence on the part of defendant.

Captain J. P. Cotton was first called, and produced a plat of the locality, drawn to scale. He testified as to certain distances.

Charles Williams next identified enlargements of photographs furnished to him by Colonel Sheffield.

Thomas Winters, foreman of the New York Transportation Company, testified that he saw the automobile when brought in for repairs. He identified photographs of it, taken then. The right dashboard was bent, about a foot from the top. The seat on the right of where the chauffeur sits was injured and panels on the right side were smashed. There were no injuries whatever to the front of the automobile. The second lamp, front of the seat, was smashed. The machine was about 12 feet long, over all, he should say. The lamp was completely smashed, and bent backward and inward. The night foreman took the photographs just as soon as the automobile came in. Witness assisted and directed. The mud-dash was bent directly down—not backward.

James Graham, who had been summoned by plaintiff, was not called by defendant. Witness was on the avenue, on a load of lumber. His horse was afraid of automobiles. Opposite Mrs. Wells's villa he met the automobile, which passed him. He heard the horn going and looked around. He saw Miss Anthony thrown out or jump out. The horn was blown before the automobile reached Ruggles avenue. The noise he heard was like the breaking of spokes, and a grating as when they stop automobiles quickly. The "auto" turned back to the right side after passing a vehicle. Witness stopped before this and had not started when the collision occurred. He saw no other automobile about there.

Henry C. McVicar, lawyer, of New York, one of those in Mr. Gray's automobile, testified. He saw the carriage coming on Ruggles avenue. The occupants were talking, evidently not looking where they were going. They went on talking and—the horse ran into the automobile. Never saw Mr. Hirshfeld until witness jumped out to hasten to the injured lady. He took her under her arms and had some distance to drag her to get her to the curb, so that the automobile must have been near the middle of the road. Witness thought the chauffeur could not have avoided the accident. The horse was going so slowly that it was impossible to imagine that Mr. Hirshfeld wouldn't pull up. The front lamp of the automobile was absolutely uninjured. The horse was off his fore feet, his forequarters being in the automobile. Witness saw both sides of the horse and trap and saw no injuries. The stop of the automobile witness would describe as instantaneous. It was the quickest he ever saw. It was before the horse struck it. Witness was positive that the front of the automobile did not strike the horse. He got into the automobile at the Newport Reading Room and was going to see the yachts come in. Mr. Gray invited him; it was Mr. Gray's automobile. He had not believed it was possible for any machine to stop so quickly as this did. Witness was not talking at the time; he saw the people coming. Should say he saw them 100 feet away.

Marion Wright of Philadelphia, who was in the automobile with Mr. Gray, was next called. He was on the right, the chauffeur on the left of the front seat. They saw the trap coming. The chauffeur is very careful. He was going slowly and the trap was going at quite a slow rate, and there was no reason whatever to suppose there would be a collision. The people in the carriage kept going and going, the chauffeur kept moving slower and slower, until the horse came into the automobile. They made no slightest attempt to stop. They might have done it with the greatest ease. Can't say what they were doing. The horse struck behind the dash and was coming right into witness's lap, but stumbled on the step of the automobile and fell with its whole weight on the automobile, his head over witness's lap. Witness jumped out and caught the horse; but it was perfectly quiet and didn't try to run. It trembled some. Witness couldn't see a scratch on the horse. Didn't see how either of the occupants got out of the carriage. Heard Mr. Hirshfeld make no complaint. It would have been very easy to stop either the carriage or the automobile.

William E. Smith of Webster street was next called. He saw the horse, etc., next day. This was withdrawn, as too remote.

Mr. Gray, defendant, a citizen and resident of Newport, next testified. He was on the right side of the back seat. The chauffeur was Charles E. Pinkham. They were going very slowly, not even six miles an hour. The horn was blown twice, and they approached the blind corner. Witness supposed they being on the thoroughfare, the horse would stop; but it didn't and he called to the chauffeur "Put on your brake." The horse came into the automobile practically at right angles. The trap was not upset, and it has been a wonder to witness how the people got out of the trap. He saw Mr. McVicker holding up Miss Anthony. The trap showed no injury. There was some horse hair on the "brass protection" of the automobile. Somebody says: "Here comes her father;" and somebody said: "Jim, your daughter is killed"—or hurt. Mr. Anthony drove up. Witness gave his card to some one who asked for it and went to see how Miss Anthony was getting along. Both vehicles were going quite slowly. The first lamp and the water cooler back of it were absolutely uninjured. Nobody in the automobile was injured. The pictures which were of the automobile were identified. Other witnesses testified from them.

Charles E. Pinkham of Chelsea, "automobilist engineer," who has had two and a half years' experience as chauffeur, testified. He was driving the automobile for Mr. Gray. Had a load to lathing it and knew it thoroughly. He had to turn out before reaching Ruggles avenue for two grocery teams. On the left was a lumber team with a skittish horse, and witness slowed down for it, keeping to the middle of the road. He sounded the horn, two short, one long and two short blasts, before reaching Ruggles avenue. There was a carriage on the avenue to pass, so he had to keep to the right.

When nearly across Ruggles avenue witness heard what he supposed to be Mr. Gray calling to put on the brakes, and at the same time witness heard the crash. He stopped the carriage in four feet. He saw Mr. Wright leaning down holding a horse's head in his arms. Witness sat still waiting to see if any of his machinery was injured. The front part is very sensitive. It is six feet from the front lamp to the second lamp. There was no injury to the front part, and he went home under his own power. The side panel of the front seat was pushed in and the front step bears the print of a horse's foot. The front guard was pressed down onto the wheel by the horse's weight. There was a little hair on the front seat of the automobile; witness supposed it came from the horse's shoulder. Mr. Hirshfeld was trying to brush himself. His hand was not bleeding; probably did bleed later. Witness was driving carefully at the time. There was room enough for a carriage to pass between the automobile and the left curb when it stopped. At Ruggles avenue witness was on the centre of Bellevue avenue or to the right of the centre of it; did not see the Hirshfeld horse until it was in the automobile.

Mrs. Anthony was recalled and said the chauffeur called on her, with photographs, and said he turned to the left to avoid the team, and if they had turned to the left, as they ought to have done, it would have been all right.

It was now 1 o'clock and all witnesses except the physician, who was to go on in the morning, had been called. So the court at once adjourned to 9:30 a. m. Wednesday.

AT THE UNITY CLUB.

The Unity Club held its first study meeting last evening in the Channing parlors with a good attendance in spite of the storm. The evening was in charge of Mr. H. W. Lull and the subject was "Plato and his Ideal Commonwealth," being the first in the course on "Social Experiments and Ideals." Miss Franklin gave an interesting presentation of the social conditions in Athens during the fourth century B. C. She was followed by Mrs. Lull, who read a carefully prepared paper on the life and work of Plato, after which Mr. Lull gave an exhaustive account of Plato's "Republic." Those who joined in the discussion were Dr. Frederick Bradley, Mr. A. O'D. Taylor and Rev. A. P. Record.

During the half-hour social which followed there were solos by Miss Driscoll, accompanied by Miss Sinnester, and a reading by Miss Harrington.

As the Channing parlors are engaged for December 1, the next meeting of the club will be held Wednesday evening, December 2. The program will be in charge of Rev. Mr. Record. The subject to be "St. Augustine and his Vision of a Perfect State."

O'NEILL AND HIS COMPANY.

The New London Day says, in part, of James O'Neill and his company, which appeared in that city Monday evening in "The Adventures of Gerard": O'Neill's best work is done in the very first act. His interpretation of the soldier who has fought in many campaigns and who has served his emperor faithfully under diverse conditions is remarkably fine, even to people who so well know what O'Neill can do. His action is easy and he really is the character he portrays. Aroused from his relaxation to find that he has been tricked, his geniality turns to scorn and when the honor of the emperor is impugned he begins to fight the men who have been false to their uniforms.

"O'Neill's support is of the highest class. In fact, at least two of the other parts are so well taken that they threaten to overshadow the work of the hero himself. Edmund Breese's Napoleon is a wonderfully fine interpretation. Creston Clarke, as Talleyrand, is called upon to fill an exceedingly difficult part. There is character in every motion and in the scene in which he throws off the mask of diplomacy and shows the passionate nature that is buried in his misshapen form he is really great. Miss Selene Johnson was the Countess de Requelaure, a character that calls for no small degree of ability and which she filled in a most commendable manner. James O'Neill, Jr., is in the cast and as Captain Sabattier had some chance to show that he has inherited no meagre amount of dramatic ability from his father. The entire company is strong, even the minor parts being assigned to competent people."

Buckles are again used with smart effect on the winter hats. Wide bands and folds of ribbon, soft silks, ribbon and even lace, are thrust through the buckle and then draped, or twisted around the crown, the buckle being in front, or slightly to one side. They are of cut steel, silver gilt, jet or "jewelled."

THE BERLITZ SCHOOL OF LANGUAGES AND ITS METHODS.

The method of the Berlitz School is peculiar to it and can not be followed in Colleges or Universities, as these aim at entirely different ends. The Universities form philologists, the Berlitz Schools linguists: the former instruct in the science of critical comparison, the latter teach the art of practical mastery.

Not a word of English being used at the Lessons, and consequently no translations, the pupil gets accustomed to think in the language he is learning. For Free Trial Lessons in French, address

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Barlow Surprised on Their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Barlow observed the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding, which took place in Newport November 17, 1853. Rev. Samuel Adlam, then pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. No arrangements had been made for a formal observance of the occasion and no invitations had been issued, but during the day Mr. and Mrs. Barlow received a large number of friends and many gifts and letters of congratulation. In the evening they were surprised by a visit from about 40 members of Emma Rebekah Lodge, who proceeded to furnish an entertainment which included readings by Mrs. Robert L. Underwood, Mrs. William D. Tew and Mrs. Samuel N. Booth, and the presentation by Mr. Robert M. Pike in behalf of the lodge members of a number of $5 gold pieces. During the evening a phonograph provided by Mr. Howard N. Ackers added to the entertainment.

Mr. Barlow is now 75 years old and Mrs. Barlow is 72, and both are enjoying good health. Mrs. Barlow's maiden name was Susan Nason. Four of their eight children survive—Mrs. R. Hannnett Tilley, Miss Mary A. Barlow, Miss Lydia A. Barlow and Charles H. Barlow, the three last-named living with their parents.

Ice cream, cake and fruit were served and each guest was given a piece of wedding cake made by the bride of 50 years.

SUCCESS OF "THE TWO ORPHANS."

D'Ennery's masterpiece of dramatic interest, "The Two Orphans," will be produced with Kate Claxton in her original role of Louise, the blind girl. As the years go by and "The Two Orphans" always has large audiences season after season, while other good, interesting plays are born and die in a short time, the question is often asked: "Why has 'The Two Orphans' outlived thousands of others?" In a word one might answer, because it has all the elements of success which other plays possess only in a degree. There is scarcely a passion known to humanity which it does not show in its strength, both as cause and effect, and these human passions are so closely woven and interwoven in the threads of the story that it forms a drama that stands almost unrivalled as regards powerful effects and deepest pathos.

Pathos is the key-note struck by a master hand in a way that has drawn the tears of people since its first production. It is doubtful if a story of more pathetic interest has ever been written than this tale of two friendless girls left alone in the gay city of Paris, both beautiful and one of them blind; their separation and the hideous dangers they fall into, the bitter, hidden yearnings of the Countess for the child torn by cruel fate from her breast, the piteous figure of Pierre, the sad story of Marianne, are all phases of life that touch the tenderest chords of nature. Miss Claxton has not been seen for some years and brings with her now a company of players, which is said to be one of the strongest supports she has had since them clodrama was produced at the Union Square Theatre.

PATTI'S FAILURE.

(Harper's Weekly.)

Adelina Patti, otherwise the Baroness Cederstrom, has returned to the American concert stage for what we are earnestly assured is "the very last time." The wits have done admirably in the past with the subject of the diva's leave-takings, so we may relegate to them the surpassing opportunities of the present. But what of that notorious voice which has been for generations an international tradition? The most scrupulous gallantry cannot blink the fact that the voice which so valiantly projected itself into the spaces of Carnegie Hall has lost all but a pitiable modicum of its former loveliness, its inimitable and haunting magic. The art which is its controlling impulse is as dexterously heedful as of old, but the voice itself is heedlessness and worn. It has still its appealing tones—beauty has not yet passed wholly from it; but these are occasional only. And at the end one realizes, a little sadly, that the Patti of yesterday—the Patti of our mothers—is but a magpie and receding memory.

ARRIVAL OF THE PROTECTOR.

Lake Submarine Meets a Slight Accident and Must Wait for Repairs Before She Is Tested.

Lake submarine boat Protector limped into this port yesterday afternoon and tied up in one of the slips at the Torpedo Station. The craft has for a tender and convoy a schooner, and with this in tow she started from Stonington yesterday morning to make the worst stage of her journey, that of rounding Point Judith in disagreeable weather. It was something of an undertaking for a submarine, but her inventor, Simon Lake, knew her so well that he did not hesitate to make the attempt. Just after rounding the Point the hawser connecting the two vessels parted as they were pitched about in the heavy sea, and the tender came in under sail. In manoeuvering just after the parting of the cable the clutch of the starboard reversing gear broke and disabled the propeller on that side, so that the Protector was forced to make the remainder of the distance under her port engine alone.

The boat comes here at this time to undergo an extensive competitive test against the Holland type of craft, the navy having a large appropriation at its disposal for the purchase of submarines and a trial board now being here for the purpose of preparing a report upon the value of the two types. The tests promise to be exhaustive and will be conducted in this bay and between here and Block Island. The Holland people have sold several boats to the navy already, but now there are those who would like to see the Lake type in service also. Of course before the Protector can be expected to make any tests repairs must be made, and these will be conducted here. Torpedo boat destroyer Dale, which arrived recently, will remain here during these trials for such duty as the board may require of her. It is possible that the boat will be hauled out at the Newport shipyard before her trial takes place, though that has yet to be decided.

THE SUBWAY'S TOLL IN LIVES.

(Collier's Weekly.)

A huge mass of rock—300 tons or more—dropped without warning from the unfinished roof of the New York Rapid Transit Tunnel recently, and the lives of ten men were snuffed out. In almost the same place two years ago a similar accident happened with almost as fearful a result. That part of the tunnel runs far under ground; there are donkeys and tramcars there, and the steady throb of water pumps. The rock is a treacherous schist—"bastard granite" the men call it. The cleavage is almost vertical, and an excess of rain or some other simple cause will drop a huge slice of it as neatly and as quickly as you would let fall one card from a pack.

In the Park avenue section of the subway in 1901 an accidental explosion of dynamite killed five persons, injured, more or less, hundreds of others, and destroyed several hundred thousands of dollars' worth of property. A few blocks away the roof of the tunnel caved in one day and the front walls of a whole block of brownstone houses crashed after it. The tunnel company was finally compelled to buy up the damaged block for about a million dollars. In the same section, Major Ira Shaler, the ill-starred contractor, who was held responsible for the accident, was himself killed by a similar fall of rock.

These spectacular tragedies are part of the price which must be paid for the completion of any such feat of engineering through the very heart of a crowded city. Almost every day a few lines of newspaper type chronicle a mishap in some part of the long length of the subway. If every case of "fractured skull" or "internal injuries" were run down to the hospital bed, where some Italian laborer dies, unidentified, perhaps, and unknown, the list would be one that would seem to the casual hearer to be appalling. It probably would run well up into the hundreds.

Six Free Trips to St. Louis Exposition.

(SIMPLY WRITE A LETTER.)

A grand opportunity is here offered to attend an event which will mark an epoch in the 20th century history of the world.

We are marketing to discriminating soap users two products, "Velva" and Protection Soap.

Velva is a superior toilet soap, with a panel of velvet pumice soap in the centre, enabling it to serve the double purpose of cleansing the hands and removing persistent stains of every character.

Protection is a medicated soap, presenting the greatest and most positive antiseptic heating agents known to science; universally recommended by trained nurses.

The young ladies at the Notion Counter will explain how to get a Free Trip to the St. Louis Exposition.
